PLEADS WITH NATIONS TO ACT QUICKLY

Restoration and Reconstruction Necessary at Once Premier Declares

WORLD CATASTROPHE

First Plenary Session of Conference Adjourns
Until Friday Morning

LAUSANNE, June 16.—(UP)— Prime Minister Ramsay Mac-Donald of Great Britain, chairman of the Lausanne "reparations" conference to end reparations, today pleaded that nations speedily settle the reparations question to "avoid world catastrophe."

"We have met today in the shadow of the most ominous economic crisis that ever afflicted the world in time of peace," MacDonald said. "The whole world looks to us as it has never looked at an international conference before to find an agreement which will help end existing distress."

"What I wish to emphasize is that this is a world catastrophe."
"I repeat that in this, there is no France, no Italy, no Germany, no United States, no Great Britain apart from the rest of the nations," MacDonald said. "None of us can stay out of the work of restoration and reconstruction because none of us can stay out of the miseries which are gathering about us."

"Today we have met to consider one part of the cause of our distress, the financial inheritance of the war, and we must come to agreement."

Referring to the experts who met at Basle and reported that inter-governmental debts must be adjusted, MacDonald said:

"I can but endorse this appeal,
the urgency of which has been

ADVERSE REPORT ON BONUS BILL TODAY

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(UP)—
A senate vote on the $2,400,000, 000 (B) Patman bonus bill was prevented today when Senator Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma, objected to a unanimous consent agreement for an immediate ballot.
Previously the finance committee had reported the bill unfavorably and Chairman Smoot pressed for a vote.

FOUR ARE INJURED IN CHICAGO HOLDUP

CHICAGO, June 16.—(UP)—Four persons including a woman were wounded, one of them fatally in an attempted holdup of the Della, fashionable roadhouse today.

Fred Pacelli, a guest, died of wounds at a hospital.

The bandits were beaten off after a gun battle in the presence of 400 patrons clad in evening clothes.

Others wounded were Marjorie Bruce, 28, condition critical; Roy Marshall, 35, said by police to be driver of the bandit car; and a second bandit, who escaped.

The bandits, armed with shotguns, invaded the crowded roadhouse as more than 200 couples were dancing to the music of Gus Arnheim's orchestra. Guards opened fire on the gunmen as they passed the ballroom. Shots crashed out in the dimly lighted dance floor as patrons screamed in terror.

OPEN VERDICT IN JENKS CASE GIVEN

LOS ANGELES, June 16.—(UP)—
A coroner's jury today returned an open verdict in the death of Merton Leroy Jenks, wealthy real estate man and oil operator, who was shot as he sat in his automobile in the hills near the city with Mrs. Helen E. Moffitt, an attractive young married woman.

The jury decided that Jenks was "shot by persons unknown with homicidal intent."

Mrs. Moffitt testified briefly, saying there was no love making as she and Jenks sat "looking at the scenery."

Disabled Vets Are Guests Of President

WASHINGTON, June 16.—
(UP)—Hundreds of disabled World war veterans, some in wheel chairs and many hobbling on crutches, were received by President and Mrs.
Hoover at the White House garden party last evening.

The president, who throughout the day had remained close to a private telephone to the Chicago convention, came out from his office to shake hands with each veteran.

ADVOCATES OF REPEAL BEATEN AT CONVENTION

Minority Report Loses After Four Hour Debate Early Today

CONVENTION STADIUM, CHI-CAGO, June 16.—(UP)—Prohibition repeal advocates were defeated early today in a Republican national convention floor fight before a crowd which changed its manner constantly from rowdiness to the calm boredom.

By a vote of 681 to 472 the convention rejected the minority platform report proposing submission of the American people of an unqualified question of repeal or retention.

For more than four hours the convention listened to platform planks, oratory and gay interpol-ations of an evidently wet gallery.
Long after midnight the last orator had his say.

The roll call result never was in doubt from the moment the delegates met at 9 p. m. It was inevitable that the delegates would be controlled by combination of administration pressure and anti-repeal sentiment. When the repeal or retention plank of the platform minority finally had been rejected there was immediate adoption of the majority report—providing submission of an amendment which would allow wet states to be as wet as congress may determine and dry states to be as dry as congress can make them by assisting in enforcement.

Boos, jeers and cheers often echoed in the vast stadium. Cash customers in the galleries exercised their privilege of liking the lines of a show or not liking them.
They did not like the argument of James R. Garfield, chairman of the platform committee, that young people did not today know the horrible saloon conditions of pre-prohibition days.

"Hoot, hoot, hoot," hooted the gallery.

"Boo, boo, boo," continued the chorus of dissent.

Garfield tried again.

"Yah, yah, yah," drowned his words.

A determined man and unfraid, Garfield again returned to the first word of the offending sentence and the gallery gods again would have

SENATE GALLERIES CHEER FOR CURTIS

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(UP)— Galleries and senate joined in a long round of applause today as Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, announced Vice President Curtis had been renominated.

Minority Leader Robinson, Democrat, Arkansas, added his congratulations to those of Republican leaders.

"If the Republicans win," he said, smilingly, "we will be pleased to have the present occupant in the chair—but God save the country from another Republican administration."

WILD CHEERING BREAKS OUT AS HOOVER NAMED

Demonstration Today Goes on for 27 Minutes as Nomination Made

CONVENTION STADIUM, CHI-CAGO, June 16.—(UP)—The Republican National convention convened with the crack of the chairman's gavel at 11:42 a. m. today to nominate its ticket for 1932.

Chairman Snell announced that the convention would proceed to nominate a candidate for President of the United States. A cheer from the audience greeted this announcement.

John McNab, a California delegate, was recognized first.

Snell discovered his mistake and then recognized Joseph L. Scott of California, who stepped forward to begin his address.

A tall spare man with heavy white hair and low overhanging eyebrows, read rapidly in a high voice.

He was greeted with a brief cheer, but the audience was obviously holding itself for the big staged demonstration to be set off later. At first mention of California the members of that state's delegation cheered.

Practically every delegate held a small American flag and a paper horn awaiting the signal for the Hoover demonstration.

At a meeting of the Oregon delegation today a member suggested that Calvin Coolidge be nominated for President. A poll of the delegation, however, showed it to be heavily in favor of Hoover and Curtis.

Finishes Speech
Scott finished his nominating speech at approximately 12:20 p. m.
As he neared the final words flourishes were thrown on. Cameras got set.

A signal was given and a flag was pulled from the lighted Hoover portrait.

The organ and band combined swung into "California, here I Come."

California led the procession with a huge sign inscribed "Press on With Hoover."

CONSTABLE KILLED AND SLAYER CAUGHT

RENO, Nev., June 16.—(UP)— Surprised by two asserted bootleggers whom he sought to arrest, S.
W. Battalo, constable of Greenville, Calif., was shot and killed today and Jack Sullivan, 35, was brought to the Reno county jail, charged with the killing.

The shooting occurred near Doyle, Calif., 50 miles from here.
Battalo was shot six times with an automatic pistol and several times with a rifle. Any one of the bullets which struck him would have caused his death.

Revelation Is Made At Stock Probe

Davis Stock Appears Before Senate Investigation of Market

WASHINGTON, June 16.—(UP)—
Charges that an investment company sponsored by Cyrus Eaton, Cleveland capitalist was "looted" of $100,000,000 which had been invested by the public were made today by Davis Stock before the senate stock market investigators.

Stock is an investigator who has been operating with the senate banking and currency committee since the investigation began.

Stock told the committee the company was known as Continental Shares and that federal "tax dodging" to the extent of $2,000,000 was involved in the transactions to which he testified. He said the "looting" of the company took place in October, 1929. Stock made the following statement:

"An investment company at Cleveland, known as Continental Shares, was sponsored and promoted by Cyrus Eaton, a Cleveland capitalist, and the public invested 100 million dollars in the shares of this company. This company was apparently solvent until used to bolster other undertakings of Mr. Eaton, with the result that the public lost 100 million dollars."

"In the different cases investigated by this committee, the question of federal tax dodging has always been a background, but in this case it comes to the foreground, to the amount of two million dollars."

"One of the new arts in America's tax dodging is to set up a Canadian corporation that carries a set of books and makes it appear that profits were made in Canada. Sometimes the Canadian company is dissolved, after a very short period of tax dodging service. Certain provinces in Canada have practically no income tax, notable among these is
New Brunswick."

"It is a remarkable thing that in this case the company paid $35,000 in express charges on securities shipped from New York to Canada, and back again to New York, never have been out of the custody of the bank that handled the matter for Eaton, the bank having shipped it
New Brunswick."

SEEKS NEW RECORD IN AIRPLANE TRIP

NEWARK, N. J., June 16.—(UP)— Captain James B. Dickson of the army air corps reserve hopped off for Los Angeles today with three passengers in an effort to beat the trans-continental speed record.

Dickson's passengers were Arthur Loew, Henry Ginsberg and William Melnick.

Stops at Indianapolis, Ind., Wichita, Kan., Albuquerque, N. M., and arrival at Los Angeles at 4:30 p. m., P. C. T., were planned.

RENOMINATED

Below are Herbert Hoover, President of the United States, and Charles H. Curtis, Vice-President, who were renominated by the Republican National Convention in the Chicago Stadium today.
Many opponents were named for Curtis, but the administration forces managed to keep enough votes in line to assure his nomination.

JOSEPH SCOTT, LOS ANGELES MAN, PLACES HOOVER'S NAME BEFORE REPUBLICAN MEETING

CHICAGO, June 16.—(UP)—Joseph L. Scott, of Los Angeles, nominated President Hoover as the Republican party's candidate for a second term at the national convention today, picturing him as a "home spun American," and a master in human engineering whose shield remains unsullied after four years in the White House.

"I give to you as your candidate our great Californian—Herbert Hoover," Scott said, climax-ing laudatory tribute to Hoover as man and leader.

"This man of whom I speak is the ideal standard bearer," Scott said. "In this epoch, he believes in his principles—nor has he been niggardly in appreciation of those patriotic citizens who in the halls of congress or elsewhere have divested themselves of partisan intolerance and have stood shoulder to shoulder with him in helping to solve the problems of taxation, or budget balancing, of unemployment and of relief."

Charging that the "weapons of contemptuous assault and scurrilous innuendo are at work today" throughout the land in vain effort to besmirch the character of a great American," Scott championed President Hoover as "one whose life typifies the spiritual values and the vanity of mere earthly things."

The speaker urged his nomination
"because he exemplifies the undaunted courage of the real American sprung from the grass roots of the nation, because he visual-izes the hopes of the humblest toiler of this land, because he understands that we must first seek the kingdom of God and His justice—and all other things shall be added to us, because for us,
our children and grand children,
he has lived through the lonely watches of the night, solicitous for us all, irrespective of party affiliations."

Fulfilled Pledges
"He has been weighed in the balance and has not been found wanting, because modestly and fervently he had fulfilled his pledges," Scott continued.

"He has taught us to strain
our individual selves to the limit rather than cowardly to lie down under a paternal government be-

CONVENTION ADJOURNED LATE TODAY

Hoover Renominated by Big Majority But Running Mate Has Close Battle

STRANGE PLATFORM

Senator Joseph France is Roughly Handled When He Attempts to Speak

CONVENTION STADIUM, CHI-CAGO, June 16.—(UP)—Herbert Hoover and Charles H.
Curtis today were named by the Republican national convention as their party's nominees for the presidency and vice presidency.

The friends of Mr. Hoover swept him into the nomination by an overwhelming vote.

Hoover Vote
The vote for Hoover was:
Hoover 1126 1-2.
Coolidge, 4 1-2.
France, 4.
Dawes, 1.
Blaine, 12.
Wadsworth, 1.

Curtis Vote
The vote on the vice presidential nomination was:
Charles H. Curtis, 633 3-4.
Hanford MacNider, 178 3-4.
Alvin T. Fuller, 57.
J. Leonard Replogle, 22 3-4.
Bertrand Snell, 5.
James G. Harbord, 161 3-4.
Charles G. Dawes, 9 3-4.
Judge Kanyon, of Iowa, 2.
Senator Bingham of Connecticut, 1.

David Ingalls, of Ohio, 5.
Secretary of War Hurley, 21.
Senator Couzens, of Michigan, 2.
Then the supporters of Curtis, with aid from some of the administration forces, beat down sharp opposition by a close margin and brought about his nomination on the first ballot.

So once more the Hoover-Curtis ticket, successful four years ago, goes before the country bearing the standard of Republicanism. It stands upon a platform far different from that of 1928.

It is filled with planks designed as weapons in the war against depression. And it contained the Republican party's first declaration wavering from a "bone dry" stand on prohibition.

Presentation of Mr. Hoover's name to the convention by the eloquent Joseph L. Scott of Los Angeles, was followed by a 27-minute demonstration.

Before the ballot was taken former Senator Joseph France of Maryland attempted to place Calvin Coolidge in nomination. He was barred by guards in a brief, sharp scuffle from the platform.

CONFERENCE ON REPARATIONS OPENED TODAY

supported by all happenings since."

Referring to the part of the United States in world affairs, MacDonald said:

"A great opportunity now presents itself to put our heads together and to halt active influences now making for general economic deterioration. If we do this, Europe cannot act alone."

"We must all welcome the assurance that after the present phase is over, the United States will encourage us to believe that she will co-operate, in the examination of any rate, of wide problems, and join us in devising a policy of maintenance of civilization based on prosperity of all nations and obtained by busy industry, international exchange, and full and happy lives enjoyed by the masses."

After MacDonald's speech, the first plenary session of the conference adjourned to 10 a. m. Friday when the German delegates will present their case.

The whole scene was a seething riot of waving flags, straw hats, banners, cowbells, horns, hand-clapping, cheering, whistling. Streamers of colored paper were unrolled from the balconies.

Senator Fess came to the speaker's desk holding a huge cardboard shield on which President Hoover's portrait was hung. The stage manager of the show stood on the platform holding up large numerals on placards as he directed the demonstration. At the end of the second minute he had reached signal No. 4. His name is C. S. Hudson, of Los Angeles.

The din was growing as an extra hand crowded in rendering its own version of "California, Here I Come," which made a total of three different versions all clashing. Many noted figures in the convention were milling in the steaming throng.

Ruth Hanna McCormick Simms of Illinois in a red hat was in the center of it as was Will Hays, Harding's campaign manager.

Release Balloons

Assistant Secretary of the Navy Jahncke carried the Louisiana standard. After five minutes the stage managers began releasing the baskets of vari colored balloons from the ceiling. They added a lively touch of color as they glistered in the spotlight.

Delegates scrambled to capture a balloon.

After five minutes the only states whose standards were left in their normal places were South Carolina and Mississippi which have been the center of feuds with the Hoover administration, Illinois, next to them, was the last to join in.

Walter H. Newton, one of President Hoover's secretaries, was rushing around with a shield bearing President Hoover's portrait. Then he entered the United Press box where he could be close to the scene.

Many shook hands with him as they passed and no doubt intended to call the matter to his attention if Mr. Hoover is re-elected and has any jobs to pass out.

Colonel Frank Knox, publisher of the Chicago Daily News who has had much to do with the Chicago show, stood on a chair and beamed.

Hoover administration lieutenants here including Senator Fess, Secretary of the Treasury Mills, permanent Chairman Snell and Larry Richey began battling the colored balloons about. They were actually playful. It seemed as if for the first time the Republicans had tossed off their fears and cares and were boys and girls again. A perfect riot of balloons, a battle of multi colored airy balls was staged in the pit of the arena.

Stunts Held Back

There appeared to be enough balloons to run for 25 minutes. At the end of the first 10 minutes the show had hardly begun. Numerous other stunts were being held in reserve by Stage Director Hudson.

After 15 minutes standards of Arizona, Oklahoma and Nevada and Utah and Oregon were still in their regular places. However, it should be explained that each state has two standards so that every state was represented at least by one placard. After 20 minutes many of the delegates, weary from their sessions earlier today, had settled back in their chairs to rest their tired feet.

Publisher Knowland of the Oakland, Calif. Tribune, shared honors with Governor Rolph at the head of the California marchers.

The organ continued to vibrate the vast stadium with its deep rolling strains.

Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, the pride of Oklahoma and some day possibly destined for other honors, appeared beaming on the platform.

none of it. There was racket from the delegates, too. For some moments the disorder and uproar seemed to approach a fury some of the demonstrators of past political gatherings.

Permanent Chairman Snell, appropriately or not, banged for order during the prohibition dispute, not with the shiny gavel intended for that purpose but with a bung starter.

"You are guests of this convention," bellowed Snell to the rebellious galleries.

"We're the voters and we paid to get in," was the cheery response. Garfield finally rather shamed the hecklers with a brief sarcastic appreciation of the galleries' courtesy and fairness. Except for one or two speakers evidently considered by delegates and gallery auditors alike to be below par orators, there were no further continued hostile interruptions.

Speakers came in bewildering rapidity with Snell apportioning the limited time finally in parcels as scant as a minute each.

"I come from Nevada where men are men and the women are glad of it," shouted Governor Fred Bazar.

"Give us a square, fair chance to vote whether we want repeal," pleaded tall, handsome, silvery haired Senator Bingham, Republican, Connecticut, general in chief of the repeal forces.

Bingham got a big hand. Floodlights swept the great interior, Illinois leaped into action. Indiana was in with signs "We want repeal." Around the standards of Oregon and Washington there were hand-to-hand squabbles for possession. Michigan, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Wisconsin and Maine paraded.

One squad of paraders had steins and a beverage. They said it was real beer. Another group carried a shanty-town rod strung with a dozen growlers (tin buckets used to transport beer from the side door of Martha's place to Pinnegans kitchen) but the fun continued only five minutes.

Bingham offered this substitute for the plank finally adopted:

"We recommend that the congress of the United States immediately propose an amendment to the federal constitution repealing the 18th amendment thereto to be submitted in conventions of the people of the several states called for that sole purpose in accordance with the provisions of article five of the constitution of the United States."

"Should the 18th amendment be repealed we pledge our best efforts toward the enactment of such measures in the several states as will actually promote temperance, effectively abolish the saloon, whether open or concealed, and bring the liquor traffic itself under complete public supervision and control with revenues properly drawn from legalized sources for the relief of the burdened taxpayer."

WIVES GUESTS AT SESSION OF KIWANIS CLUB

Wives of Kiwanis club members sprung a surprise on the club at its weekly luncheon at Ketter's cafe Wednesday. They invited themselves to the luncheon and when the men arrived they found their wives already seated about the long tables.

The women contributed their share to the entertainment. Each introduced herself by reciting an original rhyme about her husband's business and Mrs. Arthur May presented two solos about "Daddy," since the self invited guests came in honor of Dad's day.

The address of the day was delivered by L. L. Beeman of the Santa Ana high school faculty, who spoke on economics and social relations.

President Fred Newcomb was presented with a check to pay his expenses as delegate to the International Kiwanis convention in Detroit. He will leave Los Angeles aboard the Kiwanis special next Wednesday.

Mark Hare, popular junior college singer, presented two solos as the closing number of the entertainment program.

Republican Amendment Plank

CHICAGO, June 16.—(UP)—Text of the Republican party's plank on prohibition:

THE EIGHTEENTH AMENDMENT:

The Republican party has always stood and stands today for observance to and enforcement of the law as the very foundation of orderly government and civilization. There can be no national security otherwise. The duty of the President of the United States and of the officers of the law is clear. The law must be enforced as they find it enacted by the people. To these courses of action we pledge our nominees.

The Republican party is and always has been the party of the Constitution. Nullification by non-observance by individuals or State action threatens the stability of government.

While the Constitution makers sought a high degree of permanence, they foresaw the need of changes and provided for them. Article V limits the proposals of amendments to two methods: (1) Two-thirds of both houses of Congress may propose amendments; or (2) On application of the legislature of two-thirds of the states a National Convention shall be called by Congress to propose amendments. Thereafter ratification must be had in one of two ways: (1) By the legislatures of three-fourths of the several states; or (2) By conventions held in three-fourths of the several states. Congress is given power to determine the mode of ratification.

Referendum without Constitutional sanction cannot furnish a decisive answer. Those who propose them innocently are deluded by false hopes; those who propose them knowingly are deceiving the people.

A nation-wide controversy over the 18th Amendment now distracts attention from the constructive solution of many pressing national problems. The principle of national prohibition as embodied in the amendment was supported and opposed by members of both great political parties. It was submitted to the States by members of Congress of different political faith and ratified by state legislatures of different political majorities. It was not then and is now not a partisan political question.

Members of the Republican party hold different opinions with respect to it, and no public official or member of the party should be pledged or forced to choose between his party affiliations and his honest convictions upon this question.

We do not favor a submission limited to the issue of retention or repeal. For the American national never in its history has gone backward, and in this case the progress which has been thus far made must be preserved, while the evils must be eliminated.

We, therefore, believe that the people should have an opportunity to pass upon a proposed amendment the revisions of which, while retaining in the Federal Government power to preserve the gains already made in dealing with the evils inherent in the liquor traffic, shall allow states to deal with the problem as their citizens may determine, but subject always to the power of the Federal Government to protect those states where prohibition may exist and safeguard our citizens everywhere from the return of the saloon and attendant abuses.

Such an amendment should be promptly submitted to the states by Congress, to be acted upon by state conventions called for that sole purpose in accordance with the provisions of Article V of the Constitution, and adequately safeguarded so as to be truly representative.

cause he knows that rewards come to those who bear the burden of the heat of the day."

Scott lauded the spirit of sacrifice and service of the nation's pioneers as a prelude to declaring:

"We have an illustrious example of such a spirit—the spirit of one who, through the last long struggle, four years has stood at the helm as the captain of our Ship of State, and has steered the vessel safely through fog and hurricane and passed the terrors of the lee shore."

"He has never lost faith. He has never relinquished his soul for the applause of the moment. He stands today serene and confident in the knowledge that he has kept the faith."

Scott admonished that "in these days of stark communism and ill-considered militarism we had better renew our course by the fixed stars of the eternal principle that fundamentally must live and will live if, with God's help, we do our full duty."

War On All Fronts

"This is a war on all fronts," he said, "not for the young to die while their elders drive them on, but for old and young to live and to understand the mutual responsibility of citizenship. It is a call back to the spiritual life, to the Sermon on the Mount, to remember that we are our brothers' keepers."

The speaker asked listeners to visualize Mr. Hoover "in his study in the White House, in the room where Lincoln signed the emancipation proclamation, working through ceaseless hours over the problems that are your problems, seeking solutions that will aid mankind."

"We have need of introspection," he said. "Each in the form of his own conscience, had better take time out to reflect that in this bicentennial of Washington's birthday the man who holds highest aloft the standard the more attracts the hosts of the opposition."

"We had to have a Valley Forge to learn the value of our political heritage. We had to have the Emancipation Proclamation and the Gettysburg speech to understand the Declaration of Independence."

Destiny of Nation

Scott denied that in his application to material problems the president had forgotten those more humane in character.

"We deny the right of our political adversaries to arrogate to themselves the credit of placing human rights before property rights," he said. "We may recall to their minds that our first Republican president told his contemporaries that he hoped to live 'to see the day when the black mammy could cuddle her baby to her bosom as her very own, and that 'God never made a man good enough to keep his fellow men in subjection.'"

"The destiny of the nation is largely in our hands as members of the Republican party. No one can survey the horizon without an overwhelming sense of the responsibilities resting on us."

Millions of anxious and bewildered man, women and children are watching us, praying that God will strengthen and enlighten us so that out of our work may come the dawn of a new day, full of hope and confidence."

"It is in that spirit of hope and confidence and with humility that I address you."

Scott concluded with this nominating paragraph:

"With hearts full of gratitude and fidelity, we of his own state of California—the state of our love and devotion—proudly present this home spun American—a man in the best acceptance of that term, to lead us to victory in November as the new president of the United States. I nominate him and I give to you as your candidate our great Californian—Herbert Hoover."

to their own respondent, in Canada, and returned same.

"Eaton was a member of a brokerage firm in New York, and the stock was sold by branch offices of that brokerage firm all over the country."

"Mr. Eaton ventured in many financial speculations and undertakings, including the speculation of stocks in steel, rubber and public utilities. He conducted these operations largely with the resources of this investment company whose stock was sold to the public. It was controlled by dummy directors, largely members of his family, who held stock in the company for which they never paid."

"The outstanding operation in the looting of the investment company's assets occurred in October, 1920. Otis & Co., Eaton's brokerage firm, being heavily involved at the banks and elsewhere to the extent of $125,000,000, and being called upon to pay some of these obligations, arranged for the sale of certain securities by Foreign Utilities, a Canadian corporation, to Continental Shares for $57,000,000. Foreign Utilities was the personal corporation of Eaton. The best of these securities so bought, together with $28,000,000 of securities already owned by Continental Shares, were then put as collateral with a New York bank for a loan of over $35,000,000 to Continental."

The proceeds of this loan were used to pay up the obligations of Otis & Co., and Eaton. The debts thus incurred in foisting the com-and finally ejected on orders of convention officers. He was roughly handled, France himself was in nomination.

Pennsylvania made the nomination of Curtis certain. He was lacking approximately 20 votes of the nomination when Pennsylvania switched its 75 votes from Gen. Edward Martin, chairman of its delegation, to Curtis.

The convention notified President Hoover of his nomination by wire and received a telegram from him.

He commended the platform and gratefully acknowledged the honor.

"But beyond platforms and measures," he said, "there lies that sacred realm of ideals, of hopes and aspirations, those things of the spirit which make the greatness and soul of the nation."

"These are our objectives and with unceasing effort, with courage and faith in Almighty God, they will be obtained."

"If the American people shall again commit to me the high trust of this great office I pledge them the full measure of my devotion."

The convention adjourned at 3:55 p. m.

with unceasing effort, with courage and faith in Almighty God, they will be obtained.

"If the American people shall again commit to me the high trust of this great office I pledge them the full measure of my devotion."

(Signed) "Herbert Hoover."

The president was sitting with Mrs. Hoover at the radio in the Lincoln study of the White House when he was nominated for a second term.

Mr. Hoover spent most of the day at the radio but was forced to leave during the half-hour demonstration which greeted the nominating speech. He posed for photographs on the south lawn of the White House with two visiting convention delegations and then returned to the study.

The nomination was announced in the house of representatives from United Press dispatches. Republicans applauded briefly but Democrats, led by Rep. O'Connor of New York cheered loudly for several minutes.

ACTIVITIES OF TWO LOS ANGELES MEN HAVING FOR OBJECTIVE THE ALLEGED ORGANIZATION OF RESTAURANT AND CAFE OWNERS IN THE COUNTY FOR THE FURTHERANCE OF MUTUAL INTERESTS THROUGH LEGISLATIVE MEASURES, AND THROUGH COLLECTIVE BUYING OF STORES, WERE UNDER INVESTIGATION TODAY BY THE DISTRICT ATTORNEY'S OFFICE.

The presence of the alleged organizers was reported yesterday in Anaheim and in Santa Ana where their doings were reported to the police. When questioned here last night by police officials, the strangers admitted that they were attempting to interest local cafe and restaurant owners in their proposition, which they declared was strictly legitimate and above board in all respects. They were advised, however, to refrain from any further organization activities until they had conferred with the district attorney.

District Attorney Sam Collins, to whom the matter had been referred by the local police, stated that the proposition, as presented to him, did not seem to violate any code provisions.

When questioned last night by Captain Buckles at police headquarters, the organizers intimated that the principal objective of the proposed association was to seek legislation that would protect bona-fide restaurant men from competition that has been created by other businesses going into the restaurant field as a side line to attract customers.

NEW CITIZENS ENTERTAINED BY S. A. LIONS

Welcoming to the privileges and obligations of American citizenship a group of Santa Ana foreign-born men and women who just received their final naturalization papers in superior court, the Santa Ana Lions club entertained at noon yesterday at the Green Cat cafe.

Special guests of the occasion were the newly-made citizens who had been prepared for their examinations in the citizenship class of the adult education department of the Santa Ana schools.

Included in the number were the following: Dagmar Anderson, Herbert Cawthra, Andrew Park Davidson, Mabel Smith Francis, Lillian German, Peter M. German, Edward Hagmann, Thomasina Frances Lamme, Joseph de Sudelev, Louis Weinberg, and George Whittaker.

W. K. Hilliard of the Lions club arranged the luncheon and presided, introducing guests of the day, and President Ray Adkinson of the Lions who extended a welcome to the newly-made citizens.

Mrs. Golden Weston, director of the adult education department, told briefly of the naturalization classes conducted by the schools, and W. W. Wieman, the class instructor, introduced the class members, comprising eleven nationalities.

Mr. Forgy made the principal address, stressing the necessity of individual participation in the government by all citizens to insure the country's future. "Give the intelligent application of your time," he said, "to help solve the momentous problems which confront our nation, and which have confronted every great nation before its downfall, which came when they were not solved."

Police Sergeant And Bride Home

A rousing reception awaited B. A. Hershey, sergeant of the motorcycle squad of the Santa Ana police department, when, accompanied by his blushing bride, he returned yesterday afternoon from a vacation trip in Colorado, where he visited his old home. The newly married couple will reside temporarily at the ranch home of S. K. Hershey, West Orange, father of the groom, until they find suitable quarters.

Picnics and Reunions

CLASS ORATOR ASSERTS YOUTH MUST WIN PEACE BY KILLING WAR CAUSES

In a forceful address on "Youth and World Peace," given at the Willard Junior High school commencement exercises last night by Margaret Monroe, the youthful speaker characterized elimination of war as the greatest problem confronting the world today, and pointed to education of the peoples of the world as the weapon with which to attain lasting world peace. Parts of her address follow:

"To perpetuate the fruits of our struggles, to hold fast to our aims and ideals through success and through failure, to concentrate our energies on achieving ever greater heights of learning, to employ our training for the betterment of all those with whom we come in contact; all these things are still our duties.

"We have been taught that education of itself is not enough, but that we must put the attainment of learning to a good use, to develop further our inherent intelligence so that when the time comes for us to take our place as full-fledged members of society, we might be more fully able to meet and cope with the many social problems which beset the world today.

"Some of these situations will of course be cared for by the present generation. However, the greater percentage of them will be left to us, the youth of today, for solving.

Greatest Problem
"Admittedly the greatest problem which confronts the world today and which has confronted it ever since the dawn of time, is the question of war and how it is to be eliminated. The necessity for the expulsion of war is greater today than it ever has been in the past. We read continually in newspapers, books, and magazines, how a steady advance is being made to day by the scientists and engineers of the nations, in the field of destructive armaments and machines of war. We read of the discovery of a poison gas which is of sufficient power to destroy completely every vestige of plant and animal life in the area in which it is released. With this gas it is possible to wipe out whole cities in the course of a few hours. Added to that are the high explosives which can be rained upon defenseless homes from a distance of 75 miles. The menace of the airplane and the submarine hardly need to be mentioned since we are well acquainted with their destructive power.

"It is clearly evident, therefore, that the wars in the future will be waged upon the defenseless citizenry of the hostile nations far away from the front line trenches and battle lines.

Duty of Youth

"Hence, is it any wonder that the nations of the world today, prefer peaceful existence? Yet though the whole world desires peace, why is it that the road thereto remains undiscovered? This is the question to which we, the younger generation, must find the answer. Also, as the youth of today it is our duty to find the path which will ultimately lead to world peace.

"It is clearly evident that world peace does not wait at the end of the road which the statesmen of the nations have been following up till now. They have tried in several ways to further world peace by attempting to check wars and misunderstanding after they already exist and are in full swing.

They are now in the same situation that we citizens of the United States were in, in respect to prohibition in the pre-Volstead days. They found it to be of no avail to attempt to modify or check the liquor traffic by means of taxes or government control. They discovered that before the obnoxious evil could be killed, it was necessary for them to destroy the roots upon which the whole structure rested. Therefore it was for that reason that we passed the eighteenth amendment, making the sale and manufacture of alcoholic beverages illegal.

"Just as we had to strike at the foundation of the liquor problem, so the nations of the world as a whole must destroy the basic causes of war and dissension before world peace can be insured. For as long as the continents of the world teem with greed, injustice, disillusionment and national and racial hatreds, how can it be said that world peace is even a remote possibility?

"These problems may all be traced down to the individual passions and instincts of jealousy, greed, distrust, and self-preservation which man has possessed ever since his creation. These basic causes have been behind every war in the history of the world. Hence, it is with these that we must deal before we can achieve our final goal. The thing that is responsible for the growth, both individually and nationally, of these causes of dissension has been and is ignorance.

"The most effective weapon which can be used today in freeing the peoples of the world from their burden of ignorance and misunderstanding, is education. For as the individual viewpoint is broadened and the thinking capacity of the individual is increased, the primal lusts and passions will fade into oblivion, and he will realize the folly, futility and hopelessness of war. It is this weapon, the weapon of education which we, the youth of today are being taught to use in our schools and with which we feel certain that we will be able to blaze the trail to a lasting world peace."

TWO ARRESTED FOR THEFT OF ORANGES

Lawrence Schauer, 29, mechanic, and Axel Blakner, 25, laborer, both residing at 323 South Hidalgo street, Alhambra, were arrested last night by Constable William D. Tremaine, Brea, for investigation of a grand theft charge. The suspects are said to have been discovered in an orchard with ten sacks of high grade oranges when taken into custody. They were driving a 1925-model Overland. Constable Tremaine turned over the prisoners to Officers Duhart and Swayze of the fruit patrol who took them to the county jail.

TAX CUT MADE BY COUNCIL IN LAGUNA BEACH

A reduction of $11,000 in the amount to be raised by taxes for the retiring of bonds and interest and maintenance of the Laguna Beach sewer district, under the sum raised in 1931, was voted by the Laguna Beach city council Wednesday night, when Mayor J. E. Bishop protested against keeping a large surplus on hand for emergencies and declared that "at such a time as this" the taxpayer should get a break. In 1931, $15,000 was raised. The council adopted a resolution authorizing County Auditor W. T. Lambert to make assessments that will bring in $4000. This year's sewer tax rate should be about one-third of last year's, it was stated. A report submitted by City Clerk George W. Prior showed about $14,000 on hand, out of which there are commitments that will reduce the surplus to a little more than $6000. The district will retire $5000 worth of bonds and the interest will amount to more than $1000. A new rest room in Heisler park, the replacing of 700 feet of pressure sewer line and other replacements account for the balance. With the $6000 balance and the $4000 voted last night, the district will have $10,000, which the mayor declared is about $3500 more than should be needed for all purposes next year.

The bathing suit question cropped up again when Fred Laurens protested against the city ordinance requiring uppers. Mr. Laurens said he came here for his health and that he had been much benefited by the sun's rays. He told the council that he had been treated unkindly by one of the lifeguards. Mr. Laurens asked if a protest could be made against the ordinance and was informed that if enough signatures were obtained, the governing body would be glad to consider giving the people what they want.

First steps were taken for the repeal of ordinance No. 48, which limits fines in liquor cases to $200. It was passed to third reading by title only and will be passed at the meeting July 6 with an emergency clause that will put it into effect at once. The city judge then will have the power to impose fines under the state law which permits fines up to $5000 in certain cases.

Edison Lighting Rates Reduced 42 Per Cent Since 1921

Edison rates have been consistently reduced from the time the Company was founded, except for the emergency period following the World War.

This chart was prepared from Edison records to indicate the trend of lighting rates and from the records of the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics to show general living costs.

Note That Electricity Has Kept Way Below Living Costs Since 1913

Maximum lighting rates are now fifty per cent lower than in 1921 and the average lighting rate for the entire Edison system is now forty-two per cent lower than it was eleven years ago.

Your dollar now buys twice as much electricity as it did in 1921, enabling you to use more light and to enjoy many appliances, such as the radio, refrigerator and washing machine for the same amount formerly paid for lights alone.

TARIFF UNION OBJECT SOUGHT AT LAUSANNE

By ARNO DOSCH-FLEUROT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, June 15.—The salvation of Europe comes near to being the principal task of the International conference at Lausanne which opens today.

The conference was called to decide what is to happen after the "Hoover moratorium" comes to an end, but the most of Europe has all but gone bankrupt and the principal constructive work of the conference is to keep the whole of central Europe from going to smash.

The first thing to do—everybody agrees—is to reconstruct economically the old Austro-Hungarian empire. The old and the new states along the Danube which set up their own frontiers proudly at the end of the war find now they can only keep going by tearing down those frontiers, and forming a huge "Zollverein" (an economic union) or at least establish such low preferential tariffs that they can do business with one another.

The trouble is that the four biggest European powers do not agree on how it is to be done. Britain and France would prefer to see the old pre-war situation with Germany, Italy and other neighbors on the outside of the economic union.

But Germany, which has not entirely given up hope of annexing Austria, wants to have the tariff walls lowered for it into the Danube states and Italy wants the same. Poland and Rumania hence see no reason why they should also not be favored. In that event France and Great Britain would also have to be taken in.

If the simpler method is adopted the Danubian states Austria, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Jugoslavia and Rumania would practically remove tariff barriers.

If all the neighbors have to be taken in it will mean an economic union of the whole of Europe—Briand's dream of a United States of Europe—and that would mean that the United States of America with its tariff walls would be faced across the Atlantic by the tariff barriers of a United Europe.

Bond servants were the people who came into this country in colonial times and were sold into servitude upon reaching this country if they were not already bound to a definite master. They were free at the close of their term of service.

NOVEL CLOCK TELLS TIME FOR 24 CITIES

Santa Ana jewelers and newspaper men today got a look at the world's first cosmochron. No, you're wrong; it isn't a prehistoric animal rediscovered. It is an electric clock which tells on one dial the time of day at principal cities of the world, which happened to be located in the 24 different time zones.

A glance at the clock tells that when it is 12 o'clock noon in Los Angeles it is midnight at Teheran. In case you are interested in Teheran. At the same glance you know exactly what time it is at Denver and Bombay, Chicago and Calcutta, New York and Singapore, Halifax and Manila, Rio de Janeiro and Kobe, The Azores and Melbourne, Lisbon and Kamchatka, London and the International date line, Berlin and Honolulu, Leningrad and West Alaska or Baghdad and Japan, each pair on opposite sides of the world.

The trick is performed through installation of a disk on the face of the clock which revolves once every 12 hours. On this disk are placed swinging plaques bearing the names of the cities half a world apart with a pointer which indicates the time on an ordinary clock face. It looks simple but took S. P. Dayton, Los Angeles clock maker and clock editor of the Pacific Goldsmith, a year to figure it out. It was being shown here by Dayton and M. Shandling of Los Angeles, a representative of the Pacific Goldsmith.

"What is it for?" Dayton was asked. "Mostly as a curiosity now, to attract attention to store windows or other displays, but its use in newspaper offices, on steamships, transcontinental trains and on top of the family radio are apparent and sure to bring the cosmochron into general use," he replied.

The revolving disk which performs this unique time telling performance can be made separately and attached to any ordinary clock, he said.

Court Notes

C. W. James, 36, rancher, Route 2, box 214, Anaheim, arrested Tuesday on a charge of battery, paid a fine of $15 in the court of City Judge John G. Mitchell yesterday, having entered a plea of guilty to the charge. The defendant is alleged to have struck John F. Stranks, of Anaheim, Saturday night while at the intersection of First and Main streets in Santa Ana.

Yaldoro Estrada, 21, El Modena, charged with assault and battery, was tried yesterday before Judge Swayze of Orange, and sentenced to pay a fine of $50 or spend 50 days in the county jail.

LITERATURE IS DISTRIBUTED BY ORANGE UNION

ORANGE, June 16.—Local V. C. T. U. workers this week are distributing literature on "Non-Alcoholic Medication" and the prohibition question, as a result of their semi-monthly meeting held Tuesday afternoon in the First Presbyterian church.

Members were especially interested in a pamphlet, "Known by Fruits," by Dr. A. Z. Conrad, of Boston, Mass. This article had been reprinted from the National Voice of July 10, 1930.

It said in part: "Down and out with the soulless, conscienceless, hydra-headed monster—the liquor traffic. It is doomed. There is no discharge in this war. Let the bootlegging conspirators against God and home and native land take notice! We are in this war to win it! We are on the side of justice, sanity, sobriety, honor, economic progress, home happiness, health and heroism. We know it. Mr. Wet, you are lined up with law-breaking crowd of disreputables, whether you like it or not. You have the approbation of thugs, gangsters, brewers, traffickers in human life, wreckers of true liberty, economic slavery, gamblers and morons, and all the disreputable elements of the modern world. Do you like your company?"

"Why does not the 'wet press' now vociferously cheering 'education,' practice what it preaches and educate through its own columns? No, it is all camouflage and bunk. The only people realizable of the nefarious, God-hating, liquor traffic are the prohibitionists. Education without law is utterly ineffective in a world where wanton selfishness and undisciplined passion are so rife. 'Of course, educate. Tell the world the truth about the capacious maw and the insatiable appetite of the liquor traffic and traffickers in childhood, youth and violated womanhood!'

"The foes of prohibition have no argument that will stand the test of logic and no reasons which will stand the light of reason. We are right. Ours is the cause of the people. 'Be strong and of a good courage!'

Another of the leaflets tells of the Frances E. Willard National Temperance hospital in Chicago, Ill. One of the articles of the hospital constitution states that "All medicines used must be prepared without alcohol, and all physicians occupying positions on the medical staff of the hospital or dispensary must pledge themselves not to administer alcohol in any form to any patient, nor to call in counsel for such patients any physician who will advise the use of alcohol."

METHODIST CLASS MEMBERS CONVE

ORANGE, June 16.—The Benedictine class of the First Methodist church met yesterday in the home of Mrs. George Bolm, 203 Maplewood avenue. Mrs. O. A. Long, Mrs. E. A. Long and Mrs. R. E. Gross assisted Mrs. Bolm in her duties as hostess. The home was decked with fragrant summer flowers and a covered dish luncheon was served at noon to the 23 members present.

The greater part of the day was spent at sewing and during a short business session it was reported that 95 calls had been paid by members and 21 bouquets given to those ill. Mrs. Roy Cavett presented.

CHURCH GROUP TOLD OF WORK IN PHILIPPINES

ORANGE, June 16.—The mid-week meeting at the First Christian church last night was featured by a talk on mission work by Paul Kennedy, who has spent more than 10 years on the Philippine islands in the interests of the church. The Rev. Franklin H. Minck, church pastor, presided over the meeting.

Mr. Kennedy is one of the many workers forced to return home because of lack of funds with which to carry on the work. His talk was followed by a short talk by Dr. Royal Dye, of Los Angeles, a former missionary to Africa, who made a brotherhood plea for funds to be raised by the first Sunday in July. This sum is to be used for retaining missionaries in the foreign fields, he said. The Rev. George Tinsley, pastor of the Fullerton Christian church, said a few words in support of Dr. Dye's message.

Mr. Kennedy illustrated his talk with a map, describing the string of islands from Ceylon, India, up to Alaska. The mountain areas are inhabited by crude people who have no homes and live in the tropical forests, he said. Many of the natives are afraid of the white man, he said.

The mission work which has been done in the lowlands is not complete, but now is left in the hands of the natives because so many workers have been called home. The American school system is a great thing for the Philippines, he brought out.

OFFICIAL OLYMPIC EMBLEMS: Buy your Olympic Pins at Safetyway and Piggly Wiggly Stores—official distributors. Shield and five circles—gold-plated—Price 50 cents. Boost the games—Wear an emblem.

Through the merging of our three companies, Safetyway has certainly taken another progressive step which is already effecting greater economy to our customers. We are strictly in the service of our customers, and each added degree of efficiency makes our company more worthy of its position in the important field of food distribution. Okay, Los Angeles!—Bakersfield's "following through."

H. J. BRUCE—Los Angeles—Pasadena
We are happy this week to tell our customers that our recent combination of our three companies makes possible a long list of lowered prices. As a member of this organization for twelve years, I firmly believe that today we are in a better position to render a food service even more worthy than at any previous period in our development.

H. S. WRIGHT—Los Angeles—Beach Cities
As a result of combining Safetyway, MacMarr and Piggly Wiggly Stores, we can now offer the same merchandise and the same prices in all stores. This action unifies our functions and adds materially to the efficiency of operations, company-wide. Under Safetyway's competent administration, the "follow through" in my stores will effect a very noticeable and improved usefulness to our many customers.

GEORGE WELLER—Piggly Wiggly Stores
My association with the executives of Safetyway Stores has been a most pleasing experience, prompting a profound admiration for their broad businesslike policies. Although a confirmed Piggly Wiggly enthusiast, I am thoroughly convinced that the stores under my direction will be better and more deserving servants of the public under the Safetyway combination. All our Piggly Wiggly customers will find us "following through."

L. L. WOOD—In Charge of Expansion
In my responsibility for new stores, expansion and remodeling activities, I am privileged to tell the friends of Safetyway and Piggly Wiggly that this organization, during the past few months, has put over two hundred men to work in remodeling and opening new stores. Our present program is purposely designed to lend our support to each community's increased business, and we intend to continue our efforts.

S. D. McCOLLUM—Hollywood—Glendale
"Following through" has been the most valuable lesson learned during my training with Safetyway Stores. "Follow Through" in Safetyway terms means to carry the service policies and principles of our management completely through our stores, on into the kitchens and on to the tables of our customers. I am proud to invite you folks to visit any one of my one hundred stores. We are ready to "follow through."

A. B. JOHNSTON—Riverside—San Bernardino
Safetyway and Piggly Wiggly operations in the Orange Empire are quite extensive, and I am pleased indeed to call our many customers' attention to our "one price policy" in all stores. Bringing merchandise to this rather distant point at regular Los Angeles prices constitutes a real service, and I respectfully submit the information that merchandise advertised in Los Angeles papers is available in our stores at the advertised prices.

M. B. HOLLINGER—Santa Barbara
Although operating quite some distance from the immediate metropolitan area of Los Angeles proper, the stores in the Santa Barbara territory are fully awake to the worthy purpose of our company's present program. I am glad to see my company stepping into a determined effort to be of more than passing usefulness in every community.

B. M. LEWIS—Bakersfield
Through the merging of our three companies, Safetyway has certainly taken another progressive step which is already effecting greater economy to our customers. We are strictly in the service of our customers, and each added degree of efficiency makes our company more worthy of its position in the important field of food distribution. Okay, Los Angeles!—Bakersfield's "following through."

SHARKEY WON'T QUIT RING--WIN OR LOSE

OLYMPIC HOPES

by CLAIRE BURCKY

To the determined little band that includes Percy Williams, Don Bennett and others who laughed at great physical odds in the race for track and field glory, add the name of Glenn Cunningham. The University of Kansas runner must be included among Uncle Sam's brightest prospects for the Olympic 800 and 1500-meter runs.

A trick heart threatened to keep Williams from his double Olympic sprint victory in 1928. A frail, undernourished body almost stopped Bennett before he had the chance to hang up his double victory in the recent Big Ten games. And a country school fire that cost the life of Cunningham's brother almost ruined Glenn's chances to capture mile and half-mile triumphs in the Big Six conference meet May 21.

The Kansan was severely burned in the school fire. Even today he has to be careful of his legs, which do not have ample flesh and skin protection over the bones. Cunningham first attracted attention in 1926 when he set state and Kansas relay interscholastic mile records for Elkhardt high school. Later that year he won the National interscholastic mile championship at Chicago.

He is a sophomore at Kansas now, eligible only since last fall, but already he has won cross-country, indoor and outdoor running championships of the Big Six circuit. He won as he pleased and set new records in both the indoor and outdoor mile and half-mile events. He ran a mile in 4:14.3 May 21 and a half-mile the same day in 1:53.5.

His most impressive performance, however, was registered last Saturday in the National Collegiate at

GLENN CUNNINGHAM

Chicago where Cunningham ran one of the five or six fastest miles of all time, defeating Brooksmith of Indiana by six yards in 4 minutes, 11.1 seconds.

MONTGOMERY TO HEAD SAINT TRACK IN 1933

With Floyd Montgomery duly installed as captain, Santa Ana Hi today looked forward to the 1933 track and field season with considerable optimism although granting that June graduation ceremonies will take their usual heavy toll.

Montgomery, high jumper and low hurdler, was elected leader of the Saint 1933 forces late yesterday. He succeeds Ray Cartwright, Hi's ace half-miler who set a Southern California interscholastic record of 1:55.6 last year.

Montgomery achieved his greatest fame in the Coast Preparatory league meet in which he was a surprise winner of the high jump at 6 feet. He has run well under 27 seconds in the low sticks, and vaulted 11 feet.

Many Stars Graduate.

Although graduation and ineligibility will relieve the squad of such trackmen as Captain Cartwright, Baldwin Ramacher, Frank Hensholt, Duane Larrabee, Lucian Wilson, Harold Clem and Glen Bishop, the Saints hold over a number of promising candidates, not the least of whom is Captain-elect Montgomery who seems to have unlimited possibilities in the high jump.

Great improvement is expected from Bruce Swishelm, who as a sophomore this season ran 10.2 in the 100 and 22.8 in the 220, and from Major Anderson, a junior, who did 10.3 and 22.8. Earl Moiley is another good dash prospect, and Coach Clyde Patton thinks he'll get some points from Sophomores George Sommers, Jack Shill and Harold Soucie when they arrive from junior high school.

Although he may transfer to some other school, Bob Dixon is considered a dandy prospect in the 440 and 880. He set a Coast league "B" record in the 660 this year. Harry Appling, who may be eligible for another season, is another 440 and 880 hope.

Downs, Former Ball Player, Gets 1-15 Years

LOS ANGELES, June 6.—(UP)—Jerry Downs, once prominent as a Pacific Coast league baseball player and manager, today was sentenced to San Quentin prison for a term of 1 to 15 years for his confessed participation in the $52,000 robbery of a downtown jewelry store.

Downs had pleaded guilty and asked for permission to file application for probation. His plea was denied by Judge Charles Burrell.

GROVE, ORNERY SOUTHPAW, NOW ALMOST HUMAN

BY HENRY McEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

CHICAGO, June 16.—(UP)—Not since the handsome Dr. Jekyll's potent brew got the best of him, has any man managed such a startling metamorphosis as that accomplished by Robert Moses Grove during the months between the end of the 1931 baseball season and the beginning of the 1932 grind.

This time last year, Robert Moses, who is known to the trade as "Lefty," was just about the ornery cuss in baseball. No Harold Soucie when they arrive from junior high school.

Although he may transfer to some other school, Bob Dixon is considered a dandy prospect in the 440 and 880. He set a Coast league "B" record in the 660 this year. Harry Appling, who may be eligible for another season, is another 440 and 880 hope.

'Dizzy' Dean, Disgruntled, Quits Cards

COLUMBUS, O., June 16.—(UP)—Loquacious Jerome Dean, who bears the nickname "Dizzy," will go back to St. Louis at once to talk over with Sam Breadon or Branch Rickey of the St. Louis Cardinals organization his reason for leaving the club at Philadelphia, he said today.

The youthful pitcher stopped here to visit his brother, Paul Dean, pitcher for the Columbus American association team, before returning to St. Louis.

Dean said he can reach a satisfactory agreement with the Cardinals management, he is "through" and will seek employment elsewhere, Dean said. However, he said he believed his troubles could be mended after a conference with Breadon and Rickey. He will ask that he be given the same treatment as other players.

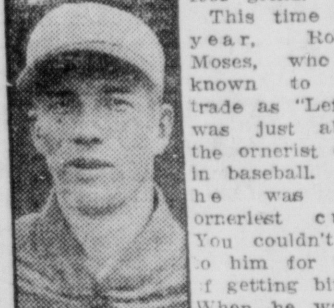

His immediate reason for leaving the Cards was the alleged refusal of the baseball club to give him a salary check to Mrs. Dean. He said his wife had been "treated discourteously."

But another cause for his discontentment, Dean said, is his contention that he is underpaid. "I receive only $3000 a year, and I know I'm worth more than that," he said. "I'm taking Burleigh Grimes' place and I've won six games already. I'm a good drawing card because I draw large crowds every time I pitch."

"They save me for week-end games; therefore, I'm not able to win enough games, pitching only once a week. I should be getting $7500 a year."

Among the 168 graduates receiving diplomas from Julia C. Lathrop junior high school tonight are many athletes, promising material for 1933-34-35 football, track and baseball teams at Santa Ana Hi.

AL'S SERVICE, 9-1 VICTOR, ON CITY LOOP TOP

Making a joke of its crucial contest with the Green Cat cafe by grinding out a 9-1 victory, Al's Auto Service virtually clinched the first half championship of the Santa Ana City league at the Bowl last night.

The Servicemen's titular status was materially strengthened by the unexpected 5-4 defeat of MacMillan Gasoline, previously a dangerous contender, by the Santa Ana Elks in a preliminary to the "big game" which lured the season's largest City league turn-

JAYSEE ATHLETES BREAK SIX TRACK MARKS IN '32 SEASON

Earlier in the 1932 track season, Coach Bill Cook predicted that Jim Daneri, Santa Ana junior college's iron-man, would be throwing the javelin 200 feet before the year came to an end.

Working out with U.S.C. and L.A.A.C. athletes at Bovard field, Los Angeles, Daneri, with a new Finn javelin, threw the javelin an even 195 feet this week, three feet better than his record mark in the Fresno night relays.

Doyle Gilbert, 1932 captain, continued his jumping streak with several leaps more than 23 feet. His best jump stands at 24 feet.

Also worked out in Los Angeles, practiced taking starts for the high hurdles. The trio accompanied Coach Cook to Occidental to register for the A.A.U. meet Saturday, and while there the Don mentor thought he would put his athletes through a workout.

Paul Jacques, high jumper, who failed to make connections with Cook here Tuesday, did not register at Occidental, and will not be eligible Saturday. He plans to jump in the Olympic Games western tryouts at Long Beach July 1 and 2, however. Paul Jungkeit, Don broad jumper, also failed to register.

Six new Santa Ana Jaysee track and field records were established by the Don champions this year. "Iron-Man" Daneri accounted for four of them and

JACK DOWN TO 201 FOR TITLE MATCH FRIDAY

By STUART CAMERON
(United Press Sports Editor)
ORANGEBURG, N. Y., June 16.—(UP)—Jack Sharkey, trained down to 201 pounds, today spent a day of serious loafing, talking about his future, and denying he will quit the ring.

LOS ANGELES, June 16.—(UP)—The University of Southern California football team today faced the possible loss next season of Aaron Rosenberg, star guard, who was expected to be one of the Trojans' mainstays. It was said he would be unable to return to college unless he obtained a job, during the school year in addition to working this summer.

GROTESQUE POEM IS CLASSIC THEME

Inspired by a grotesque poem describing the dance of skeletons at midnight, the sudden cessation of their dance and the return to their tombs as the cock crows for dawn the famous "Danse Macabre" (Dance of Death) by Saint Saens will be the featured number tonight on the classical program to be broadcast by electrical recording over radio KREG.

This number of Saint-Saens will be played by the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra and is the third symphonic poem written by him for that organization.

John McCormick will be heard on this program singing "Love's Old Sweet Song" and "Kathleen Mavourneen." "Eley Nye" will play as a piano solo Liszt's "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 8." Reconciliation Urged by Court In Divorce Suit

Declaring that evidence presented was not sufficient to justify granting either party an interlocutory decree of divorce, Superior Judge James L. Allen yesterday continued hearing of the suit of Raymond T. Dixon against his wife, Mrs. Faith M. Dixon, and the cross complaint of the wife, for three months. The court suggested that during the three months' period a reconciliation might be effected.

Dixon, who is owner of the Dixon Pump works of this city had filed suit for divorce accusing his wife of being extravagant, cool in her treatment of him and with causing an estrangement between himself and his children. He also alleged that at one time Mrs. Dixon had threatened him with a gun.

Mrs. Dixon filed a cross complaint in which she accused her husband of having beaten her on one occasion and of associating with and being too familiar with other women.

Court Notes

Charging that at the time of their marriage her husband was not divorced from a former wife, Mrs. Thelma Thompson has filed suit to have her marriage to Donald Thompson annulled. According to the complaint the Thompsons were married in Santa Ana on October 3, last. Thompson is said to be a better man.

Mrs. Nannie Myers has filed suit in superior court seeking foreclosure of a mortgage on property owned by E. W. Harmon. The property was mortgaged, according to the complaint, in January, 1930, to secure a note for $3500.

A Timely Suggestion to the MOTORING PUBLIC

FOR the past six years, tires have been steadily dropping in price at periodic intervals.

No one familiar with general economic conditions and production costs could consistently recommend buying tires in advance of current needs as being desirable.

But now we have reached the point where crude rubber has declined from $1.20 a pound in 1925—an artificially high price—to less than 3c a pound, which is far less than it costs to produce.

Cotton, too, has dropped from more than 20c a pound to around 5c a pound, which also is less than its cost of production.

These—rubber and cotton—are the two main materials entering into the construction of pneumatic tires.

A STEADY reduction in tire prices has been brought about almost entirely by the drastic decline in price of these two basic raw materials.

So in buying your tires now you get the benefit of these two items at less than cost of production, and the benefit also of price reductions made to give every possible inducement to stimulate buying for the purpose of keeping labor in the tire factories employed.

It must be evident, therefore, that tire prices have reached bottom and that you can wisely and profitably replace such tires as are worn to a point where they will soon become unsafe, and that also you can anticipate your future requirements to some extent and know you are making a good investment.

With the need of promoting employment wherever possible, and the imminence of a substantial revenue tax on tires, I believe that you will be benefiting yourselves and the country at large by making your tire purchases now.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
 Cherry Dixon, pretty, 19, tells her mother she is going to a club meeting but instead meets Dan Phillips, reporter on the Wellington News.
 Cherry has few friends because her wealthy parents consider most of the other young people of the town socially inferior. She has become acquainted with Phillips without her parents' knowledge.
 She and Dan lunch together and are about to start for a drive in Cherry's roadster when another reporter tells Dan the city editor has been trying to find him. Duke Smith, a bank robber, has escaped jail and the city editor wants Dan to find Inez Malloy, Smith's sweetheart, and get an interview. Dan and Cherry drive to the apartment where Inez is staying. He enters, promising to return in 10 minutes. When he does not come Cherry grows nervous and goes into the apartment to find him.

 NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER III

Some of the names above the mail boxes tilted tipsily so that they were difficult to read. Cherry identified the list but nowhere searched the name "Baker." It could be there, though, "Baker" was what Dan had said. Unless he'd found the place he'd have come back.

But there was no such name on the list of tenants of the apartment.
 The girl turned uncertainly. The exterior of the building had proven deceptive. The small square entrance way in which she stood was soiled and down-at-heel. Brown walls with hideous panels of scenic wall paper on either side. Finger marks smudging the woodwork.
 The simulated tile floor in need of soap and water.

What should she do?
 Cherry's fears were rising. It was at that instant that a grimy urchin, capless and wearing a sweater too large for him, appeared on the other side of the outer door and stared at the girl through the glass panel.

She drew back the door. "Do you know if some people named Baker live here?" she asked. Traces of some sticky stuff showed on his cheeks. The blue star of impassive eyes regarded her, but the child did not speak.

"Can you tell me where to find them?"

The urchin pointed a sticky finger to the door at the left. Through the glass portion of the door a short flight of stairs was revealed.
 Evidently it led to a hall.

Somehow the child reassured Cherry. It couldn't be such a dreadful place if there were children about. Timidly she put a hand on the door. It opened.

She went up the steps gingerly and found herself in a long passage.
 There was a dim yellow light half way down the hall. Its meager rays showed doors on either side—probably a dozen of them. Gray daylight filtered through a window on the landing where the stairs turned.

The thing to do now would be to knock at one of these doors and ask where the Bakers lived.

Cherry took two steps forward—and drew back in dismay. There were voices, man's voices, raised and angry, behind the nearest door on the right.

 them grew louder than the others.
 Oh, there was no doubt that the men were angry. Suddenly Cherry heard the clatter of a key turning in a lock. They were coming!

In panic, blindly, the girl ran up the stairs and turned at the landing. She heard the door open below and the men came out. Breathless, she flattened herself against the wall.

Now they were gone but she dared not go down. Stealthily Cherry crept up the stairs to the second floor. She must find someone to help her. She must find Dan!

Marshaling all her courage, Cherry stepped forward. She raised a hand and knocked at the door before her.

She could never remember the rest. The deafening roar of a gun's report, the sharp, stinging sensation in her arm, her own shriek—they seemed all to have happened at once.

Out of the darkness she was able, vaguely, to hear voices. One that was familiar. A pleasant voice.
 Whose was it? Cherry opened her eyes.

"That's the girl, Cherry! Feeling better now?"

Why, it was Dan who was bending over her! He seemed to have his arm about her.
 "Dan—what happened?"
 "Never mind about that now.
 Here, see if you can drink this."
 He held a glass to her lips. It was sharp, biting stuff that stung her throat but she drank it. Dan's face looked worried. What was the matter?

Suddenly Cherry began to remember things. That drive down strange streets—Inez Somebody whom Dan must find—waiting outside in the car—

Cherry felt a knife-like twinge of pain in her left arm. A little moan escaped her lips. Then she saw that the arm was bandaged and there were blotches of red on the white cloth. Fright widened her eyes.

"Dan—" she began but was interrupted.
 "Listen, honey, do you think you can stand up if I put my arm around you? We want to get you to a doctor. Here, let's see if you can make it!"

She was lying on a davenport in a room she had never seen before.
 Strange faces were peering at her.
 Several women, a half-grown girl,
 the grimy urchin she had seen downstairs and two men. It was not an attractive room and they were not attractive faces. Her arm ached.

"Thy it, Cherry," Dan prompted.
 "I'll help you."

Obediently she tried to rise. The throbbing pain made her awkward.
 Phillips lifted her, carefully and gently. When she was on her feet she leaned against him.

"I—I can make it!" she said. The girl's voice was almost a whisper.
 She took a step unsteadily.
 "Wait—here's your coat."

They managed to get it around her, one arm in its sleeve and the other hanging loose. One of the women helped Dan. Then, slowly and painfully, they made for the door.

It had been one of the rooms on the second floor in which Cherry had found herself. They reached the hall. There Phillips picked the girl up and carried her in his arms down the stairs. Not until they had reached the entrance way did he set her down.

"Arm hurt much now?" he asked.
 "It's pretty sore," she admitted.
 "Was it—a gun that went off?"

Phillips nodded. "Might have been a look-out or just some crazy drunk. Whoever did it was gone when I got there. The main thing, child, is to get you to a doctor's office."

They left the building. Suddenly Phillips brushed around the girl and a little in front of her. "Stay close to me!" he murmured. "And let me do the talking!"

Not six yards away, coming toward them, was a blue-coated officer and a youth.

"Just a minute there!" the policeman called. Dan and Cherry halted.
 "Do you live in this building?"
 the policeman demanded.

"No."

"Then what have you been doing there?"

"Why, officer, we're looking for an apartment. Stopped to see if there were any for rent but we didn't like the looks of the place—"

"Oh, you didn't? Hear any commotion while you were in there?"

"Sure of that?"

"Why, yes, I'm sure we didn't hear anything. Is something wrong?
 Has anything happened?"

Phillips' tone and manner were completely convincing. With a shrug and noncommittal exclamation the policeman dismissed them and entered the building, followed by his companion. Neither Cherry nor Phillips gave the younger man a second glance.

They hurried across the street to the roadster. As Dan was starting the engine the girl said, "Oh, Dan—my purse!"

"Can't go back now," he told her.
 "Not with that flat-foot there! After I get you in a doctor's office I'll come back for it."

Cherry's arm burned painfully.
 Two great tear drops, unbidden, slid down her cheek. Firmly she gripped her teeth, resolving not to cry out.

Twice Dan's eyes left the road to catch side-long glimpses of the girl's white face. Each time he increased the roadster's speed. Ten minutes later he was ushering her into a physician's office.

"It's her left arm," he told the doctor. "Gun went off accidentally.
 We tried to stop the bleeding with a tourniquet."

For another 10 minutes there was activity—tense and efficient—in the small office. Cherry's courage fore-sook her as the wound was probed and cleansed. The bullet had torn the flesh of her upper arm in an angry, jagged line but had not lodged there.

Weak from fright and from loss of blood, Cherry clung to Dan's hand while the doctor sewed the torn skin in place.

"This would have been serious," the physician told them. His name was Dr. Ryland and, according to the framed diploma from medical school which hung on the wall, he had been practicing less than four years.
 "The bullet barely missed an artery. Your tourniquet was a splendid idea. It might have saved her life."

"How's that now?" he went on, addressing the girl, "Is it too tight?"

"It's all right."

Already the arm was less painful but in consternation Cherry watched Dr. Ryland apply the last bit of bandaging. They had cut away the sleeve of her sweater. The new beige skirt was soiled and spotted and so was her coat. For the first time Cherry thought of going home.

Her mother—her father—how on earth could she face them?

A moan escaped her lips.

"I thought you said it didn't hurt
 so much?" It was Phillips speaking.
 She tried to smile. "It doesn't."

"Then what's the matter?"

"Nothing," she told him. "Just—nothing."

The bandage was finished and Dr.
 Ryland stood back. "It will be painful," he told the girl, "but I don't think you're going to have any trouble with it. The dressing will need to be changed. What you need now is quiet. Lots of rest—"

He talked on until Phillips interrupted. "Listen, Doc," he said,
 "could I use your phone for a minute?"

"Why, certainly."

Dan picked up the instrument.
 Gave me a good story. Shall I—brusquely and then a moment later,
 "Bates? This is Phillips. Say, I've just been talking to Inez Malloy.
 Gave me a good story. Shall I—
 WHAT? What did you say?"

Both of the listeners turned.
 There was something in Dan's question that was electrifying. Spellbound, they watched and seemed to see the youth's whole body go limp.

SCOUTS LEAVE FOR MOUNTAIN CAMP MONDAY

Sixty boys from Santa Ana, Anaheim, Fullerton and Orange will leave in four trucks Monday morning for their annual summer outing at Camp Rokill, Orange county Boy Scout camp 7500 feet up in the San Bernardino mountains southwest of Big Bear Lake, it was announced today by Harrison E. White, county scout executive.

The camp comprises 25 acres of wild mountain land in a setting of breath taking scenery. It is equipped with a big lodge and assembly hall erected two years ago at a cost of $7500 donated by pioneer families of the county; 12 cottages each accommodating eight boys, and a new outdoor amphitheater with a seating capacity of 160, completed during the last autumn and spring by Eugene Newman, camp keeper.

The camp staff is made up of the same personnel who supervised activities there last year and is composed of Harrison E. White, in general charge, Roy Duns, member of the Huntington Beach high school faculty who will have charge of general camp activities; John Garth, Long Beach naturalist in charge of nature study and campfire activities; Carl Bauer, Santa Ana, in charge of hikes; Roy McFarland from the staff of White Memorial Hospital at Los Angeles in charge of first aid; Mrs. Eunice Barnes, cook; Sam Tucker, cook's assistant; Harold Woodward, in charge of sanitation; Albert Spencer and Robert McFarland in charge of division groups.

The camp is equipped to provide for 100 boys per week and is capable of providing well supervised outings for 600 boys during the season. Any boy may attend whether or not he is a member of the Boy Scouts, providing he obeys the camp Scout rules. The Scout council has decided this year.

Between 70 and 80 boys are expected to be given advantages of the camp during the season free of charge through the assistance of various service clubs of the city, and proceeds of the annual Jamboree staged last Saturday night by the 40 and 8 society. Fifty boys will be sent to camp from Jamboree proceeds, according to White. These boys will be selected by various scoutmasters of the county.

While at camp every boy will be given an opportunity to live the life of the early pioneer, sleep under the stars, carry his own pack in long hikes, prepare his own food and make his own camp.

Adventure hikes and a pack hike to the top of San Geronimo Peak, on whose 12,000 foot summit there is still 25 feet of snow, and over night camps at Dollar Lake are on the hike schedule now being worked out and surveyed by Bauer.

Boys may stay at the camp for one week or the entire six weeks period at a nominal cost.

METZGAR TELLS PLATFORM FOR BOARD RACE

Formal announcement of his candidacy for the post of supervisor from the first district, comprising Santa Ana, was made today by J. C. Metzgar.

His statement explains his stand on public matters and calls for lower taxes and governmental economy; water conservation and flood control at a price property can afford to pay; abolition of delinquent tax penalties; repeal of the Mattoon act; distribution of gas tax fund so cities may proportionately share; and open meetings of the board.

The statement, which was signed, follows:

"Responding to the request of a large and representative group of citizens and taxpayers who called at my office Tuesday, June 14, I have decided to become a candidate for supervisor of the first district which includes nearly all of the city of Santa Ana.

"Considering the importance of the office in question, and believing that the people will demand to know just where each candidate stands on vital issues now confronting them, I desire to make plain just where I stand, so that there may be no doubt whatever in the minds of the voters and taxpayers as to who they are voting for, and why.

Taxes and Water

"First; I stand for lower taxes and extreme governmental economy wherever possible, without fear or favor, and that all public officials should listen attentively and respectfully to any and all pleas or petitions the people care to place before them, and see to it that every one gets a fair and square deal. On the other hand, I would favor tax money expenditures when it was plainly indicated that such expenditures were in the interest of the taxpayers, and the employment of such funds were for constructive measures. Economy methods should always consider efficient administration of public monies so that public interests are not impaired.

"Second; I stand for and will work for necessary water conservation and flood control at a price that property can afford to pay. I will here take occasion to state that I am proud to have been the executive director of the Water Users' association, the organization that in 1929 saved the people of Orange county an additional million five hundred thousand dollars ($1,500,000) which if now had been added to our present heavy taxes would undoubtedly have been that 'last straw that broke the camel's back.' Think it over and figure what that enormous sum would have added to OUR TAX BILLS.

Third; I will, if elected, use my influence and prestige the office affords to have done away with, or at least reduced to a minimum, that pernicious and abominable delinquent tax penalty as an unfair and double taxation on those least able to pay it.

"Fourth; I will work to abolish that notorious and infamous property-eating and confiscatory law known as the Mattoon Act, and will I promise, refuse to consider any improvement measures proposed under it. The act should be blotted from the statutes of the great state of California. It has been responsible for more lost homes and homeless people than any other law ever enacted for the benefit of selfish interests.

Favors Open Meetings

"Fifth; I will advocate and vote for a redistribution of the gas tax fund to the end that the cities within the county may receive their proportionate and just share thereof.

"Sixth; I will favor open meetings of the board at all times, with a full realization that the board's business is the public's business.

"Seventh; in all matters I claim at least to possess the courage of my convictions and the intestinal fortitude to work for what I believe to be right and for the most good of the most people. If you voters support me you will know what you are voting for, and that you are not voting for a 'straddler.' Having lived in Santa Ana for many years I am willing to stand on my record as a sane progressive citizen and taxpayer, and believe my experience will qualify me for the office under discussion.

"Eighth; I am an absolutely independent candidate without entanglements of any nature, and free to use my best efforts for the best interests of the whole people. With a full understanding of the importance of the supervisory work in Orange county, I submit my candidacy to the will of the voters."

WILL WELCOME D. A. V. TRAIN TO SANTA ANA

Disabled veterans from "back East" en route on a special train to San Diego to attend the twelfth annual national convention of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War and Auxiliary which will be held there next week, will receive a royal welcome by the Santa Ana chapter when the "National Special" passes through here on the Santa Fe Saturday noon.

Arrangements are being made to stop the train long enough to permit a special committee of Santa Ana veterans to board it and distribute Orange county grown oranges along with literature advertising this county, and informing the visitors they are now in the heart of the great orange empire.

Santa Anans Going

The committee which will visit the train is composed of Louis A. Riehl, Fay F. Shirley, Harry S. Pickard, H. O. Rasmussen and Virgil Marr.

A delegation of approximately 50 members of the Santa Ana post D. A. V. will follow the special train to the national convention. Official local delegates are Commander Earl B. Hawks, Louis A. Riehl, Fay F. Shirley, David R. Day, Harold O. Rasmussen and Harry D. Edwards. Alternates are Frank Wolters, James R. Thompson, Harley P. Brewer, Frank J. Kelley, Perry L. Cooper and Frank J. DeSutter. These 12 men will spend the entire week attending convention sessions.

Harry Pickard, chief of staff of the state organization, will also attend from Santa Ana, and participate as one of the state officers.

Convention Plans

Five thousand veterans from California are expected to attend, according to an announcement today by State Commander William A. Baird of San Jose, who said the convalescence is expected to be the most colorful and interesting in the annals of the D. A. V. Sight-seeing trips, band concerts, and a grand military ball have been scheduled for entertainment of early arrivals Saturday and Sunday. Formal opening of the convention is scheduled for next Monday when National Commander E. Claude Babcock, Washington, D. C., and National Auxiliary Commander Frieda Mooney of Los Angeles will be introduced by William Conley of Los Angeles. While traditional memorial services are being held Monday, wreaths will be placed on tombs of unknown soldiers and soldiers' graves in cemeteries through the United States and Europe. Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink will take part in this program.

From Monday until the following Saturday evening, there are scheduled parades, drum and bugle contests, beach parties, pilgrimages across the line into Old Mexico, tours of battlefields and training stations at the naval base, concerts and ritualistic exercises, the high lights of which will be an all night rendezvous of the "Trench Rats" playground organization of the D. A. V.

disasters and soldiers' graves in cemeteries through the United States and Europe. Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink will take part in this program.

COAST GROUP OPENS DOORS TO CANDIDATES

Candidates for county, state and national office subject to the August 30 primaries will be given a personal hearing at the June meeting of the Orange County Coast association to be held at the Bay Shore inn near Naples at 8:30 p.m. next Tuesday, June 21, it was announced today.

"The Coast association has no plans for any individuals for any particular office but it willing to give ear to all who desire to speak," said the announcement. "Among the various offices to be filled and which are of interest especially to members of the Coast association are, one senator and two assemblymen to be elected from Orange county to serve in the state legislature, a representative from congress to be elected from Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties as a unit, and one senator to represent the entire state. Several candidates for these various offices are expected to appear."

Importance of the Olympic Games in relation to Southern California will be outlined by a prominent speaker from Long Beach, and Mayor Thomas Murphy of San Clemente, chairman of a special committee appointed to make a survey of water resources and needs of coast line communities, will give a report on that work. Other special committee reports will be presented for action by the group. Report of taxation committees will be

Old Timers Picnic On June 26

The seventh annual Orange county Old Timers picnic, which was announced yesterday, is to be held on Sunday, June 26, instead of July 26, as reported in error.

The affair, which is to be held at Irvine park, will take place a week from next Sunday, and is expected to attract a large attendance.

Invitations for the picnic have been mailed by Elmer B. Burns, secretary of the organization, who today called attention to the error in the announcement of the date made yesterday in The Register.

EXPENDITURES CUT TO MEET REVENUE DROP

A tentative budget of city income and expenditures, covering the fiscal year 1932-33, beginning July 1, next, is now under preparation and will be ready for consideration by the city fathers about the middle of next week, it was announced today by Lloyd Banks, city auditor and purchasing agent.

While Banks was not in position to state whether or not the new budget would approximate that of last year which, including operating and fixed charges, aggregated $750,000, he explained that several departments have reduced their estimates for the ensuing fiscal year. Among these are the city library, the police and the fire departments.

Offsetting to some extent savings that may be effected in various departments, is the new federal tax of three per cent on electric current, charged against the consumer, which will cost the city about $1500, it was explained. An increase in postage from two to three cents, inquires revealed, will add about $400 to the city's current expense.

Banks also called attention to the fact that revenues from licenses and other resources, estimated at $280,000 for the current fiscal year, had dropped to $254,493.88, leaving a deficit of $25,496.12. To meet this deficit, operation expenses, estimated at $577,721 for the current year, was brought down to $553,394.28.

To carry on operations of the city government from July 1, next, until tax money is coming in, the city will have a cash balance of $75,390.01, as compared to $74,387.04 last year, it was explained.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

—A STATEMENT BY THE GILLETTE SAFETY RAZOR COMPANY

In its recent confession the Gillette Safety Razor Company told you that, under the stress of introducing a new razor and blade, uniformity had suffered; and told you how our efforts to correct the trouble had resulted in the development of a far superior product.

Several readers have asked us how we can make the bold, positive statement that today's Gillette blades are the sharpest, smoothest-shaving blades we have ever produced. This is a fair question, and here is our reply: A marvelous new testing machine, recently developed, scientifically proves that these blades have never before been approached in keenness.

We cannot discuss the nature or details of this machine because it is being patented. But we can tell you that it measures microscopic dimensions with unflinching accuracy—revealing with mathematic exactness, actual degrees of razor-blade sharpness. So when we state that today's Gillette blades are the sharpest we have ever made we are basing our assertion upon fact. We know we are right and can prove it. Further than this—everyone knows that a razor blade must be able to bend without cracking when tightened in the holder. This requires steel of a certain temper not suitable for a keen cutting edge. The problem is to permit flexing and yet have a hard edge that can be ground and stropped for proper shaving performance. Gillette has achieved the solution of this problem in the manufacture of its slotted blades.* These blades are made by a special tempering process that makes the edges exceptionally hard, while the center, of a different temper, flexes easily.

We urge you to try today's Gillette blades—the regular blade in the familiar green package or the BLUE SUPER-BLADE in its blue package, Cellophane wrapped. Do so without risking a cent. If you don't agree they are the sharpest, smoothest-shaving blades you have ever used, return the package and your dealer will refund your money.

The Gillette Blue Super-Blade

The $2 Kroman De Luxe blade has been withdrawn from production. We offer the Blue Super-Blade as its successor. This sensational blade is far superior to the Kroman and costs considerably less. You pay only a few cents more than for the regular blade and get unmatched shaving comfort. Its extraordinary shaving performance will convince you that the Blue Blade is the sharpest ever produced. A blue color has been applied to the blade for easy identification. It is contained in a blue package, Cellophane wrapped.

Santa Barbara Guest Inspires Pleasant Luncheon

In planning a luncheon for her house guest and niece, Mrs. Harold McDonald Davis of Santa Barbara, Mrs. Barry McPhee yesterday gave pleasure to a little group of friends, bidden to her home at 605 West Fifth street, to meet her guest and share the prompt entertainment program.

Contributing to the festive spirit of the occasion were the roses, sweet peas, gladioli and other summer blossoms, grouped effectively by the hostess, and especially colorful as decorations for the luncheon tables.

Mrs. Davis is teacher of expression at State Teachers' college in Santa Barbara, and was gracious in according to the request of her hostess that she give a reading for the guests. She chose one on an amusing theme that was thoroughly enjoyed. Among the guests were several singers of ability, and of these, Mrs. Vera Howard and Mrs. Nat Neff graciously complied with the request of their hostess by continuing the program. Mrs. Howard sang two solos, and she and Mrs. Neff joined in several duet numbers.

Miss Lucille Lambert, talented little daughter of Mrs. Ray Lambert, danced for the guests, and Mrs. McPhee's own young daughter Joy McPhee, gave an original dance interpretation to one of her mother's piano compositions, "An April Day."

Mother and Daughter Arrive Home After Tour of East

Following the lilac-scented trail of spring from Washington, D. C. northward into the pine clad mountains of the New England states, was the pleasant experience of Mrs. E. W. Spruance and her daughter, little Miss Eloise Spruance, who only yesterday arrived in their home, 2215 North Rose street, after almost two months in the east.

Washington, the beautiful and historic country surrounding the capital, Annapolis with its naval academy, Wilmington, Del. where Eloise had the pleasure of meeting many relatives whom she hitherto had not known, and various points in New Jersey were among the places visited as a prelude to New York.

In addition to renewing acquaintance with scenes and places remembered from earlier days in the metropolis, Mrs. Spruance had the pleasure as they had seen themselves with such new features as the famous Empire State building, the new Waldorf hotel, the Whitney Museum of American Art, and the new American wing of the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Among the much-talked-of new plays which she saw were "Of Thee I Sing" and "Reunion in Vienna," and the visit in that section of the east included a stay at Larchmont with a friend of her California school days.

As the Californians continued northward to the New England states until they reached Maine itself, they really watched spring advance, and arriving in Maine just a month after they left Washington, were greeted by plummy local exactly as they had seen them in the capital a month earlier. Mrs. Spruance was delighted to renew her acquaintance with an eastern spring, the red oaks and dogwood of the wooded slopes, and the vivid green of the meadows.

Returning westward, they paused in Chicago long enough to visit among other interesting places, the site of the projected World's Fair, and see the buildings completed and under construction. But perhaps the feature of outstanding importance on the entire trip, so far as little Miss Eloise is concerned, was that she was a visitor at the school which her mother attended as a young girl, and where she herself hopes to enroll.

Tustin Home is Scene Of Quiet Wedding Ceremony

Beautiful in its quiet simplicity were the wedding rites yesterday afternoon which united Mrs. Ida B. Auer of 750 West First street, Tustin, and J. W. Doughty, formerly of White, South Dakota, and who has been wintering in San Pedro.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. George A. Warner, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Santa Ana, of which the new Mrs. Doughty is a member, and took place at 4 o'clock in the lovely home of the bride. In the spacious living room, before an improvised altar of fern banked with pink and orchid hydrangeas, and flanked by tall baskets of apricot gladioli combined with blue and white stocks, the wedding vows were spoken. Gladioli in all tones of hyacinth and roses were used in profusion about the room, many selected from the lovely gardens about the home, while others were the gifts of friends.

The bride was beautifully attired in beige lace and georgette, and carried talisman roses and maiden-hair fern. She was attended by her niece, Miss Ida Alderman, of Tustin, who wore flowered green voile, while the groom was attended by his grandson, Wason Doughty of San Pedro.

Following the ceremony, refreshments of ice cream centered with pink wedding bells, were served with cake laced in pink, and punch. A trip is being planned later in the summer to the middle west, by the newlyweds.

Guests present included Dr. and Mrs. George A. Warner of Santa Ana, Mr. and Mrs. A. Alderman and daughter, Miss Ida Alderman, and Miss Ethel Alderman, of Tustin; Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Doughty and daughter, Miss Bernice Doughty, Mrs. Adele Quinn, Mr. and Mrs. Doughty and son Dale and daughter Doris, and Mrs. Susan McKnight, all of San Pedro.

New Tavern Tattlers Present Original Writings

Holding their final meeting of the school year, members of the Tavern Tattlers were entertained last night in the home of Mrs. Robert Northcross, 1318 Spurgeon street. The meeting was in the form of a pot-luck supper served in the pretty gardens where rustic chairs and tables had been placed. A color scheme of lavender and yellow was emphasized both in the napkins and the fragrant flowers centering the tables. After their enjoyment of the delectable menu resulting from the covered dish plan of picnicking, the diners sought the big living room of the home for the evening program which included initiation of two new members, Bruce Chalmers and Miss Adele Rundstrum. Each was required to give examples of original work, and it was the duty of Mr. Chalmers to open the program.

This he did by reviewing the general construction and plot of one of his short stories, extremely modern in theme, and titled "The Hi-Jackers." Miss Rundstrum, who is noted among her friends for her pleasing verse, read a succession of children's poems and other equally enjoyable, one of the most interesting ones being "Papa." Other new members who will be initiated at the first meeting after the summer recess, will include Miss Charlotte Richards, Waldo Streeman and William Fletcher.

During the business session Kenneth Patrick was elected as president for next year. Other officers elected included Miss Celestia Straub, vice president, and Bruce Chalmers, secretary-treasurer. Going officers were Miss Miriam Samuelson, president; Kenneth Patrick, vice president; and Miss Betty James, secretary-treasurer. Other business included plans for a steak bake which will be held near the beginning of the fall term, and to which new and old members will be invited to welcome the return of T. H. Glenn from Europe. Mr. Glenn was their present last evening included the Misses Alice Myers, Celestia Straub, Elva Cook, Goldie Peale, Betty James, Jane Cunningham, Adele Rundstrum, Lucile Green, Miriam Samuelson, Mrs. Ruth McNeil, and Messrs. Wilton Hilliard, Bruce Chalmers, Jack Green, Kenneth Patrick, the hostess, Mrs. Northcross, and special guests Dr. and Mrs. Edward W. Ford, Miss Lillian Dickinson, Miss Iva Hamman, and Messrs. CHURCH WOMEN SOCIETY THE HOME WEDDINGS FASHIONS HOUSEHOLD

A Sandwich That's Different

The versatile sandwich has saved more than one woman's sanity, and reputation as a good hostess. I'd like to add one more to the distinguished number of good sandwiches. These are called—

CHEESE ROLLS

1 sandwich loaf
1 pint cheese sauce melted butter

Buy a freshly baked sandwich loaf, cut it in water-thin slices and cut off all but one crust. Spread these thin slices with the cold cheese sauce, roll up, crust side out, pin with a toothpick and pack the rolls firmly in a small bread tin. Cover with a damp napkin and set in the ice-box until ready to use. Then, just light the broiled and toast them quickly. Brush one side with melted butter and serve with crisp slices of dill pickles.

The beauty of these cheese rolls is that you can make them hours before you want them...no last minute rush when you are ready to serve.

The recipe for the cheese sauce I am using as the recipe for the day. Let me commend this sauce to you for more than sandwich use. I used it first for a fish sauce, then with fresh asparagus, and when I found that this sauce could be reheated without curdling, I began to make it in quantity for emergency use. It keeps as long as mayonnaise if put in a covered jar in the refrigerator.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Cheese Hollandaise Sauce

(About One Quart)

3 tablespoonfuls butter blended with

3 tablespoonfuls flour

1 teaspoon salt

1 teaspoon paprika

1-2 teaspoon cayenne

pinch of sugar

3 cups of rich milk

3-4 pound grated nippy cheese

3 egg yolks, well beaten

1 tablespoon prepared mustard

juice of a small lemon

1-4 pound butter beaten into hot sauce

There is a little trick in making this sauce so that it will not curdle when re-heated, nor grain during the cooking, as cheese sauces are so apt to do. This is it: Cook the cream sauce base 20 minutes over hot water before adding the cheese or other ingredients.

Blend butter and flour over hot water, add salt, paprika, cayenne

FAIRBANKS JR., VAUDEVILLE AT FOX BROADWAY

Douglas Fairbanks Jr., in "Love Is a Racket" and five acts of vaudeville share the entertainment lineup opening a two-day stand at the Fox Broadway theater tomorrow.

The stage show includes some of the best numbers currently available in Southern California, according to Manager Lew Newcomb. The acts are: Harold and Willa Browne in a rag picture novelty; Stapleton and Lawler, tap dancers; Jack Rey, fire-eater, in "Mysteries of India;" Morris and Towne, wisecrackers in comedy, song and talk, and the Rogers, novelty and classical dancers.

The Broadway's screen offering, "Love Is a Racket," is young Fairbanks' latest. Lee Tracy, Ann Dvorak and Frances Dee carry important roles. Doug has the role of a young New York columnist, a Walter Winchell type, who mixes freely with gangland and the people of the stage and screen.

A newswoman and a Flip the Frog cartoon, "Schoolgirls," round out the Thursday and Friday program.

'TARZAN' COMES TO WEST COAST FRIDAY

"Tarzan, the Ape Man," based on the hair-raising story of jungle adventure by Edgar Rice Burroughs, will be the attraction at the Fox West Coast theater Friday and Saturday.

The cop who'd scared wee Copy said, "Just follow me and you'll be lead into the tent where all the clowns put on their funny clothes. We'll show you how the work is done, this gives the youngsters lots of fun. On little Duncy we will build a funny looking nose." "Oh, that will be a heap of fun," cried Duncy. "Gee! Come on, let's run! I've seen a lot of clowns dressed up in crazy things before."

"So it will be a treat, I guess, to see how they make up and dress. This is our chance to find out what bright grease paint's really for."

They scampered 'cross the circus ground to reach the tent. Inside they found a lot of very funny things that made the Tynmies roar. Two clowns were dressing like a horse and they looked mighty strange, of course. They shortly got all twisted up and toppled to the door.

Another clown put paint in place, until he had a monkey face.

And then he donned a monkey suit which had a real long tail. Said he, "In just a little while I'll make the circus audience smile. My act is such a good one that I seldom ever fail."

All of a sudden Scouty cried, "I hear some music right outside." The other Tynmies followed him as he ran from the tent. A group of seals was practicing and one of them was trying to sing. "Come, hear them lads," exclaimed a very kindly looking gent.

"Oh, let me lead your fine seal band," said Scouty. "My! That would be grand!" "All right," replied the trainer. "You can try it, if you wish."

The seals seemed thrilled to see the boys. They played and made a lot of noise. And then they started clapping. How they made their flappers swish!

COMMITTEE PLANS GOLF TOURNAMENTS

NEWPORT BEACH, June 16.—Stirred by the success of the monthly golf tournaments of the Orange County Coast association, a similar series to be staged under the auspices of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange county, will be recommended by its recreation committee at the monthly meeting of the association at Costa Mesa on June 28.

The resolution committee met at El Portal cafe here last night and received an invitation from San Clemente to hold a tournament there on July 25. If the plan is adopted the invitation will be accepted and decision made on future tournaments at that time.

One suggestion was that at least once a year the associated and coast association players get together, also that San Diego and Riverside county golfers be invited to play with Orange county men occasionally.

Another get-together idea suggested at last night's meeting, which will also be brought to the attention of the associated at its Costa Mesa meeting is that once a year, instead of the usual monthly dinner meeting, a picnic or outing be held at Irvine park or some such suitable place.

83 GRADUATES HEAR ADDRESS IN FULLERTON

FULLERTON, June 16.—At the commencement exercises held last night, 83 graduates heard Grakars Allan Luing, professor of economics and business administration in the California Institute of Technology, tell them that the government must move and more turn to the young men and women with trained minds for new ideas to show the way out from the present chaotic conditions. The subject of his talk was "Facing the Future."

He said that older men are inclined to live more in the past and remember the things that they had seen and the things that they had thought of, while the younger people with their lives ahead of them were inclined to anticipate the things that were yet to come and the knowledge that they would acquire in the future. New ideas are largely developed from younger minds, he said, while older people frequently clutter up their minds with dead thoughts.

He commented on the present economic crisis. He said that many of the thoughts of the present day might cause difficulties while these same thoughts in the years to come would be the accepted state of affairs. In the reorganization work ahead, he said that it was the trained college graduate who must lead the way.

He asked of his listeners what constituted a nation. He answered by saying that it was not constituted by race as all of the nations of the world were mongrels and that mongrels had been proven by history to be better and more progressive than those races with a pure strain. He said that nations were dependent upon one another and that these economic problems between nations was one of the things that the graduates would be compelled to face in the years to come.

Members of the Loyal Temperance Legion sang several selections and gave the temperance yella.

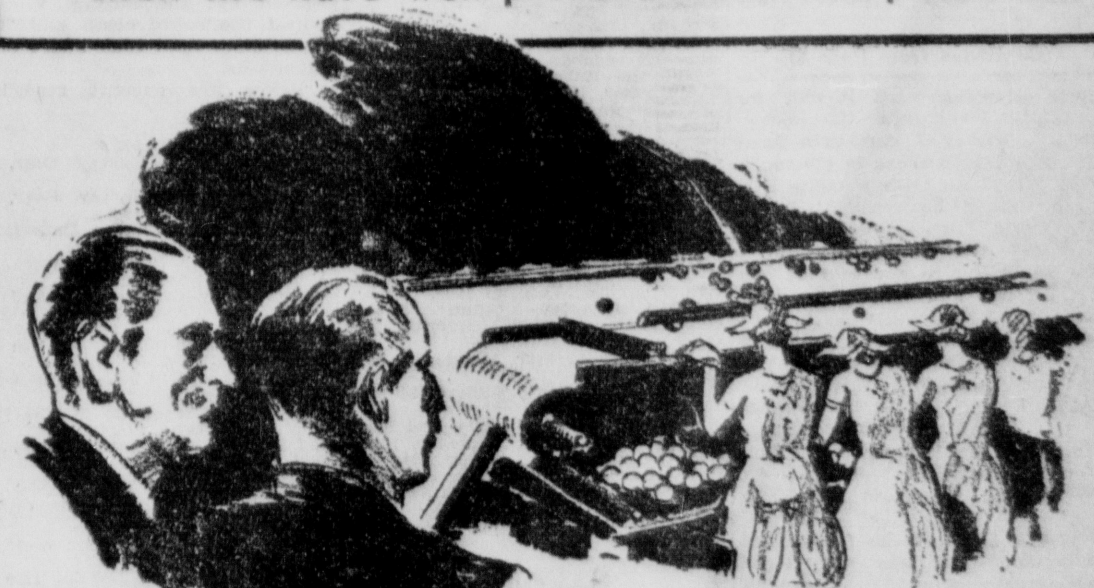

Mrs. Gora Hale, of Fullerton, county W. C. T. U. president, and Mrs. Kate Hendricks, of Santa Ana, were guests. Twenty members were present.

LUNCHEON ARRANGED

Father Genet of St. Simons and Jude churches announces that at 12 o'clock Friday at the Golden Bear cafe, the Orange County Council of Confraternity of Christian Doctrine will meet. REPUBLICANS ADOPT WET PLANK

After all the preliminaries in the discussion of prohibition in the Republican platform, it finally got down to recommendations, and it did it in these words:

We, therefore, believe that the people should have an opportunity to pass upon a proposed amendment the provisions of which, while retaining in the Federal government power to preserve the gains already made in dealing with the evils inherent in the liquor traffic, shall allow States to deal with the problem as their citizens may determine, but subject always to the power of the Federal government to protect those States where prohibition may exist and safeguard our citizens everywhere from the return of the saloon and attendant abuses.

Such an amendment should be promptly submitted to the States by Congress, to be acted upon by State conventions called for that sole purpose in accordance with the provisions of Article V of the Constitution, and adequately safeguarded so as to be truly representative.

Now let us analyze this declaration to see what it actually means.

First, it is not upholding the Eighteenth Amendment.

Second, it is clearly a re-submission proposition.

Third, it is for re-submission immediately.

Fourth, it proposes to conserve what has been the gain. This is subject to interpretation. Ogden Mills, Secretary of the Treasury, in making his speech before the convention, as well as in the committee room, explained what this provision means. He said the gain had been the elimination of the open saloon, and it is this gain that they wanted to preserve, otherwise they eliminate the Eighteenth Amendment.

Fifth, it proposes that in the amendment or in the law there would be some provision for Federal protection of the "drys" to be "dry," and the "wets" to be "wet."

Sixth, the proposition of resubmission calls for conventions instead of having the legislatures act upon it as heretofore.

This platform is the platform of Walter Brown, Ogden Mills, and James R. Garfield. It had the absolute approval of President Hoover before these gentlemen went to the convention.

It is practically the same platform that Ogden Mills as a "wet," ran upon as a candidate for Governor on the Republican ticket in New York, his platform being the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, with a declaration that he didn't want the saloon.

James R. Garfield is an outstanding "wet" in Ohio. Walter Brown was a leading "wet" in his home city of Toledo. Mr. Hoover has selected these men as his advisors, and leaves himself in the hands of his friends. Senator Fess, an outstanding "dry," opposed to subterfuge, and always standing by the Eighteenth Amendment and its enforcement, of course could not speak for this kind of a plank, and was silent in the convention.

Senator Borah, who is opposed to subterfuge, and believes in the Constitution and the Law and in prohibition, refused to go to the convention at all. The position of the real prohibitionists of this country was not presented on the floor of the Republican convention by any outstanding character on behalf of the "drys."

It was a bid for the liquor crowd in the United States, a bid which we fear will not receive a response, because the Democrats will undoubtedly present a "repealer," without the subterfuge—a plain, frank statement without hypocrisy or an attempt to deceive the people.

This plank in the platform will not receive the support of the "drys" or the "wets." It repudiates and practically "hands the hat" to the "dry" leadership which so valiantly supported Mr. Hoover four years ago, and tells such leadership: "We have got you where we want you now. We got your vote four years ago, and piloted the party into the 'wet' camp in these four years, and we don't need you now."

If Al Smith had been elected President of the United States four years ago, there would have been a fight on in this country on the straight issue between "wet" and "dry" from that time to this, and the national convention of the Republican party would have been composed of fighting "drys."

Instead of that, the "drys" were supposed to have won, and during the four years we have been wandering in the wilderness, with the Wickersham commission most of that time, leaderless, and it ends with the repudiation of that which gave the campaign spirit and force, and still without leadership.

We saw it coming. On March 18th we wrote an editorial under the heading of "Another Straddle Contemplated," in which we quoted

Secretary of War Hurley as saying that "The convention in Chicago will adopt a more liberal stand on the liquor question." And he added, "The prohibition question would be settled on the basis of state rights."

We said these words then: "It is difficult for us to believe that Mr. Hoover is in sympathy with this program, and yet we cannot understand how one of his own cabinet would urge this if the President were not in sympathy with it."

Everything from that day to this points unerringly to the fact that this program had been already outlined, and was being carried out, and all that the Chicago convention did was to endorse it.

It is a challenge to the great bodies of Christian men and women, whose representatives have recently met in such conferences as the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, North and South, the Presbyterian assembly, and all such other organizations as the Federation of Women's Clubs, which went on record unequivocally to the number of 587 to 13 on behalf of the Eighteenth Amendment, and against any proposed resubmission.

Prohibition came through the citizenship of the country rising above partisanship, and electing Representatives and Senators on the basis of their attitude upon this question. Political parties during this period were never asked to take a stand on its behalf. Neither the Republican party nor the Democratic party nationally ever did so. This is the first time the Republican party has ever specifically gone on record, and this record is against the Eighteenth Amendment, standing for a change.

They did this to make a bid for the liquor vote, and the Democrats will beat them to it at that.

Siam is experiencing a severe economic crisis, cable reports say. If it gets any worse, the royal family may have to do with one white elephant.

ANOTHER VOICE CRIES FOR A DICTATOR

In an address to the graduating class of Notre Dame recently, Owen Young again suggested the possible need of a dictatorship to straighten out the present economic tangle in the United States. Voices like his are becoming more daring, and unless the people are on their guard we may find ourselves drifting so rapidly in this direction as to menace the liberties achieved by those who are known as the "founding fathers."

It is very curious to hear the cries of those who are jealous of the Constitution, and brand as disloyal all those who raise a voice for its possible revision, in almost the next cry calling for a dictatorship which overturns every single principle embodied by the framers of the Constitution in that notable document. There was one thing of which the framers of the Constitution were fearful, and against which they guarded in almost every paragraph of that instrument, and that was the possible domination of any element of our population, whether it might be that of the privileged class or the mob. Our government of checks and balances was contrived to make impossible either the rule of a dictator or a mob. And yet here are the people who cherish the Constitution as the very gift of heaven, so sacred that, like the ancient Ark of the Covenant of the Hebrews, no hands must ever be laid upon it, perfectly docile and silent when someone suggests a dictatorship.

These people never designate the type of man who should serve as dictator, or by whom he should be designated, and what should be done with him should he obey the orders of a privileged class or of demons. It is a most mischievous and dangerous suggestion to make by any man to a people who have become formed in their belief in democratic rule. A remark attributed to Moorfield Storey, in the life written by De Wolfe is in point. He told of a group representing special interests from Boston who went to President Lincoln and told him that the enactment of a certain financial measure before Congress would ruin the country. The next day, another similar group from New York came to the President, and the President was in a quandary which advice to follow. The next day he received a telegram from the Boston group stating that they had changed their minds, and urging that he sign the bill. The New York group sent a letter immediately following the telegram stating that they had changed their minds, and urging that he veto the bill. "Since that time," said Mr. Storey, "I have always had a reserve in taking the recommendation of bankers."

A dictator would have to be guided somewhat by those around him, unless he should happen to have the proverbial wisdom of a King Solomon. Whose counsel is to guide him? That will always be the question. When the people are all united, as in the prosecution of a war, it may be safe to put extraordinary power into the hands of the President. But in a time like the present, when there is so great a division of counsel, nothing would do more to promote civil strife or revolution than to give power into the hands of any man. If such a man were endowed with divine wisdom, it might work. But where is such wisdom to be found? In a council elected in a democratic manner the power could be exercised through an executive and yet would not be abused because of its dependence on the people.

Here's a March on Washington That Would Be to the Point!

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

A SONG OF THE SOLONS

Tell us not, in mournful numbers,
That the country is upset;
Let the country go to blazes—
It's the votes we've got to get.

We all hail from different sections,
And be sure, from this time out,
That Congressional elections
Are the things we'll think about.

We should worry if the nation
May be shortly in the red;
We shall voice no perturbation
Not a single tear we'll shed.

Such disasters are unpleasant
But the time is growing short,
And the thing we want at present
Is the old home town support.

Nothing titillates our palates
Or makes heart-throbs come so fast
As the thought of all the ballots
That constituents can cast.

We shall heed our local leaders,
Shrewd and crafty fellows, all,
And send speeches out to readers
That will do some good next fall.

Why should we be disconcerted
Even though the times are slack?
Troubles may not be averted,
But we simply must come back.

We can hardly be expected
To regard the country's wants—
To make sure we're re-elected,
That's our business for the nonce.

WE MUSTN'T BE TOO SURE

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

DEBUNKING AMERICAN POLITICS

Writing this but a few days before the onset of the Republican and Democratic national conventions, I find my mind turning again to the crucial necessity that confronts us of debunking American politics.

In times of comfort and ease it may be that we can afford to tolerate demagogues and political tradesmen who see government as but a game.

We cannot now! I am sure I am but voicing the wishful hope of millions when I say I am hoping somewhat against hope that the air of emergency that will surround the two conventions will stir some leader, if not leaders, to rise above the whole sordid game of office-seeking as it has so long been known and dare to prove that the best politics is to forget politics.

Although I am the president of a university, I do not live the sheltered life the cartoonist thinks of when he thinks of a schoolman, and I am blessed with wide and continuous contact with all sorts and conditions of men throughout the region I serve, and I am convinced that political leadership, by and large, is shortsighted instead of smart in thinking it has to play down to the people in the way it does.

The American people today are having to live down to their political leadership. Political leadership is reading its own timidity and time serving into its constituencies.

The hour has struck for clarity, candor, and courage in American politics.

We cry aloud for a rational political leadership that will scorn the temporizings of the shyster politician and beat the demagogue at his own game of vivid appeal.

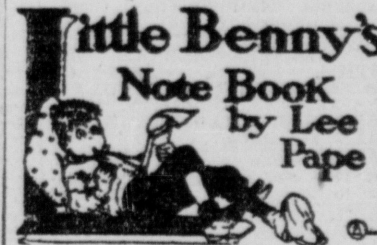

I venture again the judgment I have expressed before in these articles that a transcendent political leadership, should it appear now in the midst of our confusion, grounded in science and graced with the gifts of clear interpretation and contagious appeal, would reveal the American masses sick of sophistry and hungry for realism in politics.

The crowd-mind can be stolen from the demagogue.

The masses can be given new idols of phrase and personality. And I think I speak soberly when I say that the future of the political, social, and economic life of the nation depends upon the capture of the masses by the advance agents of a debunked politics.

If not, it may be but a question of time until we shall find ourselves caught up in a swirl of revolt engineered by some clever radical leader who will debunk our politics for us but in the debunking set us back for a generation by injecting into our national life ideas and policies inconsistent with the basic verities of the American tradition.

WORK AND EXERCISE

Exercise is work that you wouldn't haff to do if you didn't want to. A man perspiring against his will is working, but if he is doing it just to prove how good he could swing a ax he would be having exercise and properly fun. People start exercising when they are babies, exercising their lungs when they laugh and exercising their legs when they kick off their covers just because they feel active and there's nothing else to do, and when their nerie has to put the covers back again it's work because that's what she's payed for.

It's exercise to run around the block about 5 times with a friend for no useful reason, but it's work to run a errand for a duzen useful eggs.

2 expressmen carrying a heavy trunk up your front stairs never look happy, and if you tried to cheer them up by telling them what good exercise they was having they would probably only look about 10 times madder if such a thing wasent almost impossible for a expressman.

Swimming for pleasure is one of the sweetest forms of exercise and if somebody calls you to come in out of the ocean it's the worst news you could hear, but swimming to keep from drowning is something you're glad to stop as soon as possible and sorry you ever had to start.

One of the best forms of exercise is horseback riding because it's just as good for the horse as what it is for you and thus gives you a chance to be kind to dumb animals and enjoy yourself at the same time.

Dogs are always ready for exercise the second you wake them up out of a sound sleep, being one of the principal differences between people and dogs.

In the Long Ago

14 Years Ago Today.

From The Register Files

JUNE 16, 1918

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Smallwood and children of Pleasanton, arrived by automobile for a two weeks' visit in the home of Mrs. Smallwood's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Stanley.

Arthur McFadden of Irvine and Will Jenks of Garden Grove returned from a three days' trip to Bear Valley. They took McFadden's canoe and got all the trout permitted by the fishing law.

Robert Parker of the Nickey Hardware company, who was two and a half pounds underweight for his examination for entrance into the commissary department of the war service, went to Laguna Beach to spend a few days in an effort to make up the needed weight.

Some 90 members of Company L of the 16th infantry, had passed through Santa Ana en route from Camp Kearny to the Atlantic coast on what was thought to be the first move of its journey over seas. Since so many men had been taken a few at a time, for service with other outfits, the company had been reduced to but 120 men.

WHY DO IT?

"Children are such a care. One wouldn't be without them but they are certainly a great care."

"What's the matter?"

"They take up all my time. I take Betsy to kindergarten and Bobbie to school. Then I have to call for them again. I cook all their meals myself. You can't trust maids to do anything nowadays. You know how it is. The cereal must be cooked just so long and the orange juice has to be strained—"

"But a child going to school doesn't need his orange juice strained? He—"

"Oh, they wouldn't touch it if I didn't strain it. And I have to put their vegetables through a sieve. Bobbie won't eat vegetables at all if he sees what they are. I have to coax him to swallow every mouthful. Children are an awful care, I must say."

They are a grave care, but why keep them always as a care? A healthy child can be trained to feed himself, to eat his meals without fussing. The trouble comes because the mother LIKES to fuss with the children. She likes to do things for them. It gives her great pleasure to sit with them, carry them about, escort them here and there, live with them and through them and for them. She takes them into herself instead of pushing them from her. Only invalid children need be a care. Healthy children are a joy if their mothers keep letting out the string.

"No, I can't go to the meeting this afternoon. I have to iron five dresses for Helen Marie and I'll be so tired I won't want to move." And why did this mother iron five dresses for Helen Marie who was a senior in college home for a vacation? Because she wanted to do so. The girl would have been just as happy doing her own dresses but her mother would not have been upheld by a feeling of self sacrifice. And the girl NEEDED to do her own dresses.

"Life isn't worth living. If I had to do it all over again I'd not want to raise a family. I sacrificed myself for my children and they left me as soon as they could. That's all the thanks you get for a life of sacrifice."

That's all you can expect. The reward of self sacrifice is just the feeling of righteousness it gives one. If it was a meritorious sacrifice, one achieved merit. If it was a selfish sacrifice one got his just reward of emptiness.

To enjoy children, to hold their love and respect, their friendship, their reverence, we must bear them all love and reverence, all respect and regard and give them the privilege of being themselves as much as their power will permit as soon as it permits. Keep sacrifice for the high occasions when it is needed. And then, nobody ever knows about it.

(Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.) (Copyright, 1932, The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

On June 16, 1918, Italian troops, in response to the Austro-Hungarian offensive, staged a counter-attack, driving back the Austrians along the Piave, and taking more than 3000 prisoners.

French and American troops were successful in drives against German lines. The former repulsed the enemy on the Matz river, while the Americans drove off Germans with gas attacks northwest of Chateau-Thierry.

A report coming from Senator Weeks revealed that U. S. naval warfare against submarines since the first of the year had accounted for 28 of the undersea craft.

The Radoslavoff ministry in Bulgaria resigned under pressure.
